Members of the Cabinet Are in the Dark As To His Intentions,

[Special to The Indianapolis News.] WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15 .- There are conflicting rumors as to the President's probable action on the Bland seigniorage bill. Two members of the Cabinet, Secretaries Gresham and Smith, believe he will sign it. They are in favor of the bill sign it. They are in favor of the bill becoming a law. The other Cabinet officers, Secretary Carlisle included, are opposed to it. At the last Cabinet meeting there was quite a lively legal argument on the merits of the bill between its two champions, Gresham and Smith, on the one hand and Secretary Carlisle on the other. The President has not given the alightest intimation, even to his Cabinet officers, whether or not he will approve the bill.

A GREAT SUIT PROPOSED.

The Union Pacific Company Alleged To Owe the Government $40,000,000. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15 .- One of the most important propositions yet sub-mitted to Congress is that of Representative Boatner, of Louisiana. It recites numerous defaults of the Union Pacific railroad and contiguous lines to meet the debt due the United States. It charges the present and past directors of the road with a violation of their trust and improper absorption of outside lines and the voting of dividends contrary to law and against the interests of the United States. It directs in the form of a joint resolution, that the Presi-dent shall appoint special counsel to institute suit against the present and past directors, their heirs and legal representa-United States. With interest, the amount of this country, if not the largest in any country. By the terms of the resolution the Department of Justice would be relieved from further action in the Union Pacific cases, and the suit would be prosecuted by special counsel as a special case. The resolution places $100,000 at the disposal of the President for the employment of counsel. It is provided that the counsel shall not be in any way connected in present or past service with the Union Pacific road or with any of the directors.

directors, in contravention of the law of March 3, 1873, attempted a consolidation with the Kansas Pacific railroad and the Denyer Pacific railroad, and issued stock of the Union Pacific on this consolidation for $14,000,000. It is charged that a great reward for their stock, amounting to $10,000,000, was issued for the alleged purpose of makwas issued for the alleged burpose of making repairs, etc.; that the purchase of the two railroads by the Union Pacific was made by the directors, who were themselves stockholders of the Kansas Pacific and the Denver Pacific, while the president of the Union Pacific was at the time president of the Kansas Pacific; that dividends have been voted in relation of the acts of 1873 and 1878 and in violation of the acts of 1873 and 1878, not out of actual earnings, and while the Union Pacific was still in default to the United out of actual earnings, and while the United States. These payments from 1873 to 1884 are stated to have been $27,000,000. Another specification recites that the directors paid the interest on the first mortgage bonds of the Oregon Shortline Railroad Company, amounting to $4,000,000; that the directors, in violation of law and their official duties, paid subsidies to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company amounting to about $1,400,000.

Then follows a general arraignment of the company and directors for a diversion of funds in defraud of the United States. Concerning the directors, the resolution recities that "In law and equity the directors who misappropriated and misapplied the said property and said funds are liable for and bound to restore the same, with interest, to the said Union Pacific Company in order that the same may be applied to the discharge of its debts." Section 3 of the resolution confers special authority on United States Circuit Courts to hear and United States Circuit Courts to hear and

LEAD PRODUCERS DISSATISFIED.

They Insist on a Change in the Provis-ions of the Tariff Bill. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15 .- The lead producers of the West are not yet entirely satisfied with the provision now in the tariff bill, looking to the levying of a duty on lead ore when mixed and imported with

It is provided that under these conditions a duty of three-fourths of a cent, a pound shall be paid on the lead in the ore. It is understood that lead men insist that It is understood that lead men insist that a provision shall be inserted in the bill, which will insure a careful assay of the ore, and which will prevent any large shipments of the lead and silver together, unless the proper proportions are known, so that a sufficient duty can be levied.

Senator Dubois, of Idaho, who has had the lead interests in charge, has been asyured by members of the finance committee that the lead provision will be so thanged that the duty can not be evaded.

His Case Will Be Carried to the Highes

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—The pen-pion case of Judge Charles Long, of Michi-gan, will come up again in the Equity Court of the District within a short time, in the form of an application, for a perma-nent mandamus to prevent the Commistaken, unless additional evidence is he taken, unless additional evidence is filed at the Pension Bureau within thirty days, was sent to the Michigan Supreme Court justice on the first of this month. Judge Lang's counsel will commence in a few doys the taking of depositions in Michigan to support the allegations which will be made in the application. In case of the dismissal of the suit by Judge Cox,

The Mormons in Mexico. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.-Information has been received here that a committee of four gentlemen representing the Mormon church of Salt Lake, Utah, has just concluded a contract with the government of Mexico for the purchase of 3,000,-000 acres of land, and the settlement upon it of 20,000 Mormon colonists from Utah. The tract is situated in northern Chihuahua, about 120 miles south of New Mexico. The land is part of the highlands of Chihuahua, and lies at an elevation of seven thousand feet above the sea. It is said to be fertile and especially adapted for grazing purposes. It is also rich in timber. There are at present four Mormon colonies in northern Chihaahua which have been in northera Chinuanua which have been established for nine years, and are in a prosperous condition. The colonists have reclaimed the wilds and have large farms under perfect cultivation, with orchards, flour mills, cheese factories, dairies, woodenware factories and other industries. It is part of the contract that polygamy shall not be practiced in Mexico.

The Bering Sea Fleet. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15 .- The Navy Department has already begun to purchase stores and prepare for equipping the Bering sea fleet. The present expectation is that it will comprise thirteen vessels. tion is that it will comprise thirteen vessels. Four of these are revenue marine vessels, the Rush, Corwin, Bear and Grant. These will be reinforced by the fish commission boat Albatross and by the following naval vessels, presuming that they can be made ready in season: The Adams, now at Honolulu; the Mohican and Alert, now under repair at San Francisco; the Ranger, on her way north from Guatemala; the Yorktown, already at Mare Island; the Concord and Petrel, now in China, and the Bennington, now on her way around Cape Horn ton, now on her way around Cape Horn

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15 .- Senator Sherman's triends are a good deal con-cerned about his health. He has been suffering for several weeks from an attack of the grip, which leaves him in a very weak and emaciated condition. He goes to the Senate emanated condition. He goes to the Senare every day, but it is noticed that he is not fitted for business, and his speech on the seigniorage bill the other day exhausted him. Mr. Sherman is over seventy-one years old, but has enjoyed remarkable health through his long life, which he attributes to his temperate and regular habits. He will leave for Ashville, N. C., in a few days

To Protect Américan Interests. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—Secretary Herbert this morning cabled Admiral Benham at Rio to proceed immediately with one of the vessels of his squadron to Bluefields, Nicaragua, to watch over American interests there. Although no vessel was indicated, the San Francisco will probably depart on the mission.

FRANK E. BROWNELL DEAD.

HISTORIC CHARACTER OF THE LATE WAR PASSES AWAY.

He Killed the Slaver of Colonel Ellsworth-Death of the Rev. Thos. R. Markham-Other Notable People Who Have Died.

(Special to The Indianapolis News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15,-The avenger of the assassination of Colonel Elisworth, of Ellsworth's famous Zonaves, died at his home, in this city, at 5 o'clock this morning. His name was Frank E. Brownell, and he was a member of Post No. 28, G. A. R., of Chicago. He was fifty-four years of age, and had been a clerk in the Pension Office since the Arthur administra-

At the age of twenty Brownell ran away from his home at Troy, N. Y., and with only ten cents in his pocket boarded a Hudson-river steamer for the purpose of enlisting in Colonel Ellsworth's famous fire Zouaves then mustering in New York city. "I purchased a cigar with the last ten cents I had," said he, relating the experience, "and asked the captain to carry me to New York, which he did." He was made corporal of the Eleventh New York Infantry and at 2 o'clock on the morning of May 24, 1861, embarked on a Potomac river bark at the Washington wharf with Colonel Ellsworth and three brigades of Union volunteers. They landed at Alexandria about daybreak on the fatal morning. Colonel Ellsworth, with two New York newspaper correspondents, started up town and commanded Carporal Brownell and company A of the Eleventh Infantry to company A of the Eleventh Infantry to follow. Passing up King street, Colonel Ellsworth saw the rebel flag floating from the Marshall House. A few days before Virginia had passed articles of secession, and the State was in a fever of excitement. Colonel Ellsworth, at the sight, quickly crossed over, entered the house and tore the flag away. As he descended Jackson, the hotel proprietor, ran out in his night shirt and fired at him, killing him. Corporal proprietor, ran out in his night shirt and fired at him, killing him. Corporal Brownell, who had been a witness to the scene, promptly shot Jackson and bored him through with his bayonet.

This was the first Southern blood shed in the civil war. The fact of Colonel Ellsworth's killing was carefully concealed from his troops. Occurring so early in the morning, there were few witnesses, and these were enjoined to secrecy. Brownell wrapped the body in a blanket and brought it secretly to the Washington navy yard and notified President Lincoln, who was creatly grief-stricken and went to the navy yard and gave per-

Brownell after this incident. He offered him a place at West Point, which was declined. Brownell remained in the war until October 24, 1864, when he was retired on account of ill health. In 1864 he was appointed assistant provost marshal at St. Louis, and made a special investigation of the alleged Knights of the Golden Circle in Indiana and Illinois. His reports are a part of the records of Congress. He mustered cut the last regiment of Union troops in Kansas, 1867. In 1879 he was a candidate for State 1867. În 1879 he was a candidate for State Senator in a Missouri Democratic district, and was defeated. He never held an elective office. He has been in the Pension Office since the Arthur administration, serving part of the time as special examiner at Detroit and Cleveland. He was very tall and handsome, wore a full gray beard, silk hat, and was a neatly appearing man. He was very reticent about his own record. He made an annual pilgrimage to Alexandria on each recurring anniversary of Colonel Ellsworth's assassination. Congress yoted him Missouri woman in the seventies, and one daughter was born, who died in in-fancy. His body will be taken to St. Louis for burial.

Mr. Markham was a Mississippian. He graduated from Oakland College in that State, and then from Yale University, the Presbyterian Seminary at Princeton, N. J., and at Columbia, S. C. He was licensed to preach in 1835, and the next year went to New Orleans to assume charge of the church at which he was paster at the time of his death. When the war broke out Dr. Markham joined the Contederate army as a chaplain in the Featherstone Brigade, and served through many severe campaigns, including Shiloh and Vicksburg. He several times distinguished himself for heroism on the field in his ministration to the wounded of both armies and became one of the most noted war chaplains in this section of the South. Since the war he was the chaplain of the Association of Veterans of the Army of Tennessee. His oratorical powers made him one of the foremost Southern Presbyterians.

ANOTHER BOMB EXPLOSION. The Man Who Threw It Was Killed and Others Injured.

PARIS. March 15 -- A dynamite bomb outrage, involving the death of the alleged anarchist who threw the explosive missile. was committed at about 2 o'clock this afternoon inside the chief entrance of the famous church of La Madeleine. In addition to killing the bomb-thrower, a number of people who were in his vicinity at the time of the explosion were more or less severely injured. As this dispatch is sent full particulars are not obtainable, as a strong force of police is in possession of the church, and definite information is withheld until the authorities have completed their investigation of this latest outrage. At about the hour mentioned a loud explosion was heard inside the church of La Madeleine, and a crowd of people immediately rushed from the place to the church and in a very short time in the interior of the church there was a state of great con-fusion and excitement. The people who were the first to rush up the steps leading from the place to the main entrance of La Madeleine succeeded in entering the building, and found it filled with smoke, and from the inside could be heard the shrieks and groans of apparently a number of wounded people.

THE BODY OF THE ANARCHIST. Near a small door on the right of the main entrance of the church the people who were the first to enter found a shattered human body. For a time, owing to the smoke, the people who made this discovery, did not dare to penetrate any further, but as the smoke cleared away and the people regained their presence of mind, it was seen that the body was that of a man who was shattered by the explosion so that his intestines and brains lay in all directions, while his blood bespattered over a large area. Upon the body of the man who had been blown to pieces were found a number of papers and a portrait of Ravachol, the executed anarchist

The people who were in the church at the time of the explosion were few in number, as the hour was too early for the Lenten services, at which there was to be a sermon and which was fixed for 4 o'clock, But the few people in the church were so alarmed by the explosion that they sent up a chorus of cries and groans which led everybody to believe that the explosion had injured quite a number of them. When the smoke had entirely cleared away, and an examination was made of the premises, it was seen that the bomb of the premises, it was seen that the bomb of the premises, it was seen that the bomb or infernal-machine, which had apparently or internal-machine, which had apparently exploded prematurely while in possession of the anarchist, had done but very little damage to the church.

A strong force of police was soon on the scene of the explosion, and in a very brief period not only the church of La Madeleine, but the whole place De La Madeleine, was in the possession of the police authorities. ont the whole place De La Maceleine, was in the possession of the police authorities, and every person found in the neighborhood of the church was detained in custody until the police had satisfied themselves that they had no connection with the explosion. At the Lenten services, which were to have taken place this afternoon, a very large number of nearly would have very large number of people would have been present, and the police expressed the opinion that the dead man intended to ex-plode his bomb in the midst of the crowd of worshipers.

HOW IT PROBABLY HAPPENED. On all sides were heard expressions of the most fierce indignation against the an-archist, and if the excited crowd had been able to lay hands on an accomplice of the murderous an archist, there is no doubt that he would have been torn limb from limb. The door by which the bomb-thrower must have entered the church, according to the police official expressed it, "God's justice was done."

This door, it is explained, opens and shuts with a heavy swing, and it is believed that the bomb-thrower, pushing open the door and having the boom upon his person, forgot or did not know of the strong swing of this door, and in closing it struck hin and exploded the bomb.

PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

DELEGATES MEET TO MAKE A PLATFORM AND NOMINATE.

Of the 621 Delegates 62 Are Women-Old Men and Young-State Chairman McWhirter's Address on Evils and Remedies.

Indiana to-day met in delegate convention to put forth a declaration of principles and nom-inate a State ticket. The 621 delegates repre-sented 14,028 votes cast in Indiana for the Prohibition candidate for President two years ago. There were sixty-two women delegate ago. There were sixty-two women delegates in the convention. Helen M. Gougar, of Lafayette, stood at the head of the list. For the most part, the delegates were men past the meridian of life. Boone county had the oldest man in the convention, Nathan Cory, who will soon be ninety-three; next came Marion county with William F. Clark, Sr., who is is eighty-four. Many delegates had passed seventy. There were a number of college youths in the convention.

F. T. McWhirter, of Indianapolis, chairman of the State committee, called the convention to order at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Aaron Worth prayed that the Holy Spirit might be with the convention, and that the members of the party might abhor that which is evil, and cleave to that which is good. "The Bells," a quartet from Michigan, which proposes to aid quartet from Michigan, which proposes to aid in the prohibition work in Indiana, sang. Mr. Cory, the oldest delegates was introduced to the convention. He said he had always been a farmer, and had been a Propibitionist for sixty years. S. A. Haines, of Indianapolis, chosen temporary chairman, talked at length. Speaking of the financial depression, he said the neoble did not want to see a return of the "good old times." They wanted to see new "times" on a new basis. Old times and prices would carry the country down deeper. The thing to do was to stop the waste through the liquor traffic. The country, he declared, was in the thralldom of the liquor traffic. He would not continue the national banking system; he would have the United States Treasury the only source of money. The people of Indiana, he said, had the law with which they could overthrow the liquor traffic if they could only get it enforced. After Mr. Haines's talk there was more singing, this time by the "Warblers," a colored quartet of Indianapolis.

CHAIRMAN M'WHIRTER'S ADDRESS. In his annual address F. T. McWhirter, o ndianapolis, State chairman, said: Indianapolis, State chairman, said:

It is an inspiration to stand face to face with true men, who have come from all parts of the great State of Indiana, united in the one object of bettering the condition of then fellow-men. You, my 'ellow-citizens, are not here for polls nor for empty notoriety. The lust of office for the sake of emolument and the selfish desire to be esteemed prominent, have so degraded the noble science and art of politics that the honest masses have come to forget its true meaning. Reformers, too, in orget its true meaning. Reformers, too, in heir condemnation of these perversions, their condemnation of these perversions, draw themselves away from practical means of hastening the legitimate and worthy reforms which none the less weightily rest upon their judgment and conscience. Let us then take our bearings and define.

In its right sense politics is not a contest for power for the sake of power nor for office for the sake of emolument. It is not a scramble to prevent another party from winning; in order that denunciation may be vindicated, abuse of an opponent gloried in, and that icelings of self-sufficiency may be gratified in victory. These are characteristics of partisian politics without a worthy motive, and when the science and art of the preservation of the safety, peace and prosperity of the State and nation are lorgotten

On the other hand, the sphere of politics includes the defense of the existence of the government, and the protection of the inerent and vested rights of the people against foreign control, conquest and internal dis-turbance, and further the building up of the strength and resources of the commonwealth, with the preservation and improvement of norals.

Acting in harmony with these ends, and with a supreme desire for their accomplishment, has any party a right to come into being? Once born and neglectful of its mission, it has no right to continue its existence. Whenever these high objects are degraded the people should protest at the ballot-box to the extent of utter overthrow. This sailing, worthy freemen will resort to revolution.

Now let us try existing parties by these standards. With more than twenty years of continuous supremacy, the Republican party has stered, under the guise or regulation, a foe to every inherent and vested right of citizenship. In the face of well-known declarations of the highest court of the land, not a legislator has had the temerity to vigorouslyoppose this giant destroyer. Words, only empty words, have here and there been heralded as the sentiment of men who have steadily maintained a party with a platform and a policy in full harmony with the whisky ring, the money power and the monepolist.

CONDITION OF THE PEOPLE. these high objects are degraded the peop

CONDITION OF THE PEOPLE. Year by year more homes have been rendered desolate, and steadily landlordism has gained, until sixty-three out of every one hundred of wage-earners hire their homes and do not own other thirty-seven ten of them are under mortgage, a condition little better than the sixty-three enjoy without a home.

Thus in a Nation but a little more than 160 years old we have only one wage earner in four who owns his home. Turning to the farming community, the condition is ast approaching a like state of affairs. Even now less than one a like state of affairs. Even now less than one half the farmers of the Union own their farms free from incumbrance, more than thirty-two out of every one hundred renting of landlords. The wealth of the Nation has made millionaires on the one hand and paupers on the other. Now, with graineries bursting, and with overloaded coffers of gold, there is heard the plaintive wall for bread from Maine to California, and from the lakes to the gulf. The inherent rights of the laborer to earn even the necessaries for the preservation of his life are narrowed and charity is doled out by organizations, which, in their mistaken zeal, too frequently make and confirm paupers instead of stundy freemen. There is a cause for prevailing distress, and it is the business of politics to find out that cause and provide a remedy. The Republican party has proved itself an increasing failure.

NO IMPROVEMENT. The Democratic party, under the guise of personal liberty, with here and there the declaration of a man greater in his aspirations than his party, has maintained the abiding friendship of the liquor interest and cringed in the presence of the money king. Four years of recent administration witnessed the unimpeded growth of the tyrant alcohol, with the same careful, fostering protection that it had enjoyed under benign Republican rule. The anti-sumptuary platform of the Demo-cratic party is rife with destructive forces, and once fully admitted will destroy the entire moral fabric of the Nation. With such a principle all law is a farce, and corrupt men would be left to their sweet will. This rotten doctrine has already so permeated the body politic that men of both parties may be found by the score who openly say that if you had a law against the sale of liquor you could not a law against the sale of liquor you could not enforce it, and that we shall never see the day when this and other evils will be prohibited, Our speakers have stopped 100lishly to answer these unwarranted assertions instead of pushing the fight to the finish when a true party with an executive behind it will enforce whatever just law the reople demand. This issue will be tried, and the man who upholds crime as stronger than the will of the people will have time to repent his treasonable utterances.

Then another party, not yet instrusted with power, has asked the sovereign votes of op-pressed men. Yet that party in its national conventions has humbled its convictions to the most cruel and relentless oppressor that the world has ever known. In the very midst of the prayer and supplication of orphans whose fathers had fallen into dishonored graves, and of mothers made widows in the midst of pinching poverty and want, and of yet other mothers whose sons are going down yet other mothers whose sons are going down the road of ruin to disgrace and an early grave, and of fathers whose very life blood would be freely split to save as wayward boy; in the midst of earnest women whose hearts have been made to bleed as they have seen their sisters enticed into dens of vice, disgraced, ruined; iorsaken in the midst of all these crying wrongs, a cowardice unparalleled, smothered creek grave affect a carpress one would of con-

Foreign syndicates have invested largely in the brewing business and are in position to control and shape legislation. 'It is a patent fact that the liquortraffic, without conscience, impelled by avarice and lust, dominates both parties alternately, as they come into office. The saloon is notorious as the hot-bed for the development of sever serious. It is the cause development of every crime. It is the cause of poverty and disease but without resistance from any political party save the Prohibition party. Tried by every standard of true politics there is no party save the Prohibition party that has a right to exist, or to claim the votes of parties. with such a record, there is no room for

With such a record, there is no room for a non-partisan anti-liquor league. It would be as consistant to organize an order of Christians and ask sinners and devils to join the good movement which ignored every form of church organization. Nay, more, if that league should be turned to the profit of any party whose record is black as the dingy walls of perdition, what conscientious man can justify himself in an attempt to sidetrack the utter overthrow of the traffic by the only practical method of prohibition. THE GOOD MAN POLICY.

With such a party record, and with hands stained with the blood of two hundred of stained with the blood of two hundred of their brethren, who have been pushed over the battlements into the abyss of hell every day for the past ten years, you will be asked to vote for good men. Avoid "the good man policy" as you would the Siren's voice, entic-ing only to destroy. A vote for a good man in a bad party is a vote to perpetuate that party, and the sooner the political dog is turned to his own yount, the sooner will good men come and the sooner the political dog is turned to his own vomit, the sooner will good men come out from bad parties. To indorse a party by voting for a good man is counted every time as a victory by the friends of the liquor traffic. No difference how the argument is twisted, a vote for a man on any party ticket is a vote to that extent for the party, and in summing up results it is always thus counted. The sooner good men in bad parties fail to receive the votes of good men of other narties, the sooner votes of good men of other parties, the sooner, the bad party will go to the wall. I wish this fact and the responsibility of withholding the suffrage of every Prohibitionist from the candidate of every grade in the old parties, shall be impressed on every Prohibitionist and reformer in the State and Nation.

It makes no difference whether our party has a candidate in the field or not; withhold your God-given suffrage birthright from any man and all men who trail with political parties in alliance with monopolists, money kings and the rum traffic. otes of good men of other parties, the sooner

I am aware that many good and true men see in other evils, that have so multiplied with the growth of the liquor traffic, cause for great alarm. But it must be borne in mind great alarm. But it must be borne in mind that all worthy reforms are akin, and that men in leadership and many valiant followers see these dangers. Because they do not have their merited attention, some have doubted whether the Prohibition party, if elevated to power, would give needed relief. I shall here assert that it is the safest party to intrust with this great responsibility. No other body of reformers have shown such persistence of purpose, nor such sacrifice of time and money, since the days of the abolitionist. No party has since the days of the abolitionist. No party ha so many men who not are disappointed offiseekers, and whose purposes are so absolutely beyond suspicion. The Prohibition party is per-eminently in sympathy with the other re-iorms, since in large degree these reforms seek to right wrongs that have been either born from or intensified by the liquor traffic. This assertion is coming to be believed more fully by reformers along other lines.

WAGES AND THE LIQUOR PROBLEM. The whole question, for example, of wages is involved in the settlement of the liquor prob-lem. The census of 1890 is the basis of the statement that not less than one thousand millions of dollars were spent for intoxicants in that year. To manufacture this vast output on the basis of thirty cities, there were employed in the entire country 72,374 men. Now, turning to the seven leading useful industries, co-wit: Bakery products, iron and steel products, lumber and wooden mills products, boots and shoes, silk, cotton and woolen goods we find for an output of a like quan-tity at retail that not less than 500,000 men are employed, a difference of more than 400,000 men. In the production of beer, one man for one year, to $16,500 of output, in distilled spirits one man to $83,300 and in the seven use ful industries an average of one man, one year to $2,000 of output, But some monopolist sympathizer, or some ignorant man whose judgment has been warped in this matter, as in many other fundamental principles, says:
"Is there not already an over-production?" I answer no. As long as there is a hungry mouth longing for bread there is no over-production of bread, as long as rags serve for duction of bread, as long as rags serve for clothing there is no over-production of cotton and woolen goods, as long as there is a barefoot boy or girl and woman with shoes out at the heel and toe there is no over-production of shoes, as long as the housewife must use broken and worn-out stoves, and the iarmer rusted and antiquated machinery, there is no sufficient reason for the iron and steel mills to close down. lose down.

UNDER-CONSUMPTION.

No, sirs; there is no overproduction, but an an under-consumption. The liquor drain, engufing as it does more than one thousand millions of dollars annually, destroys the means with which to purchase and prevents the employment of five hundred thousand men in the useful industries. But the ques tion of employment and of wages for the wage-carner are not alone involved. When we take up these industries and analyze them from a point of view as to the amount of raw material, we find the farmer's side of the question. Malt liquors contain about 12 per cent. of raw material to the retail value. The useful in dustries contain 35 per cent. on an average. This means that the $1,000,000,000 that are spent annually for malt and spirituous liquors make a market for $120,000,000 of raw material. But if the same amount, and it would be, were spent for the useful industries, then $350,000. 000 would be demanded. This would not only 000 would be demanded. This would not only add largely to the profits and pleasures of farming and elevate the science and art of farming until the farmer's boy would find worthy employment at home, but it world urnish work for not one less than 300,000 additional men on the farms. Now, I assect on this argument, which I have tried to fairly present, that to-day not less than 800,000 men are idle in this country on account of the continued ravages of the rum traffic.

DEGRADATION OF THE WAGE-EARNER. In like manner it can be demonstrated that the money expended for intoxicants has so degraded the wage-earner that the capitalist has come to believe good wages are a damage and not a benefit to the laborer. Only a few days since one of the wealthiest and most enterprising manufacturers told me that he was of the belief that the skilled laborer was so hurtful to himself and so demoralizing among his fellows that if, instead of receiving $4 to $6 a day to spend in the saloon and to corrupt others with, he should be reduced to $1.50 a day, both he and his tamily would be better off. It is not often that men in such places are so frank, but that the whole rank and file of wage-earners are degraded by the destruct ive blight of the liquor traffic, no candid observer denies. This relentless foe, too, has deserver defines. Inits refentless foe, too, has taken from the poor and indigent and transfered millions into the coners of the general Government to be frittered away, and thus saved the provident and the wealthy from paying a just tax. All this the poor man and the friends of the weak have seen, and yet continued to license this robber of robbers.

If the revenue paid by those least able to support a government that has legislated in the interest of millionaires and of monopolists were resisted as it should be at the ballot box by voting for the Prohibition party, there would be set in motion thousands of factories, and the waste and barren places would be in cultivation for the production of raw material from one end of the land to the other, the hearts of tired and mourning wives would be made glad, the orphan's cry would no longer fill the land with sorrow, the enticements and allurements that separate husbands from wives, that drive children into the streets and blight and destroy the home, would be supplanted by happiness and mirth. Joy throughout the land would ring out the old days of worse than human slavery, and ring in the better days of freedom from want, and of homes owned by contented freemen.

On motion of Helen M. Gougar, the executive committee was instructed to use "this most powerful speech" as a campaign document and "literally sow the State knee deep with it." made glad, the orphan's cry would no longer

HE STOLE $24,000 AND FLED TO SOUTH AMERICA.

He Returned to Cairo, Ill., Last Sunday and Now He Is In Custody-The Illness of His Wife Caused Him To Go There.

CHICAGO, March 15 .- Elmer E. Comings fled from Cairo, Ill., seven years ago with $24,000 belonging to his employer, Charles O. Painter. He went to South America, and never showed his face again at Cairo until last Sunday. A telegram called him home to the bedside of his sick wife. He had not been in town five hours before the chief of police and Mr. Painter were looking for him. He returned to Chicago with his wife, and upon his arrival here Tuesday afternoon he was arrested. Chief Mahoney took him back to Cairo yesterday, where he will have to stand trial for the defalcation will have to stand trial for the defalcation of seven years ago.

Comings is the son of ex-Judge Comings, of Cairo, a widely known jurist in southern Illinois. He is about thirty-five years old. Seven years ago when it was noised about in Cairo that Elmer Comings was a defaulter to the extent of $5,000 there were many who refused to believe the report. He had lived in the town nearly all his life, and enjoyed the respect of the community. His father was one of the foremost citizens of Cairo, and those who knew the young man were loath to believe that the son of Judge Comings was an embezzler.

were loath to believe that the son of Judge Comings was an embezzler.

Young Comings disappeared from home, and his friends were then forced to believe the truth of the report. Judge Comings's head was bowed in shame, and the disgrace brought upon the family name almost killed his wite. The people of Cairo, however, thought none the less of Judge Comings and his estimable wife, for they knew the actions of the son were no fault of the papents.

parents. FLED TO SOUTH AMERICA. Comings went direct to South America after leaving Cairo, and for several years he has been located at Rio Janeiro. He is an expert accountant and has been employed for several years by one of the largest coffee houses in South America. It is said he got a salary of $5,000 a year. At Rio Janeiro Comings met a beautiful English woman, whom he married a short time ago. They returned to the United States about five weeks ago, and after a few days' stay in New York came on to Chicago. They engaged rooms at 1521 Michigan avenue and took their meals at one of the fashionable cafes on the boulevard.

Mrs. Comings had an uncontrollable desire to see her husband's people, of whom she had heard so much. It was decided that she nay a visit to Cairo and as poons there. she had heard so much. It was decided that she pay a visit to Cairo, and as no one there knew her there was no danger of her husband's whereabouts becoming known. Mrs. Comings went to Cairo two weeks ago. She was the guest of Judge Comings and family. She was introduced as the wife of Elmer Comings, but nothing was said about the husband being in Chicago. Judge Comings gave a reception in honor of his daughter-in-law at which no one was present but intimate friends of the family. Mrs. Comings was taken ill one day last week and her condition became so alarming that the husband in Chicago was telegraphed for.

UNFORTUNATE VISIT TO CAIRO.

UNFORTUNATE VISIT TO CAIRO. It has been many years since Elmer Comings set foot in his native town, and no one knew better than he why he dare not go back. But when he received the message telling him of his wife's serious illness he determined to take a chance. He hurried to his wife's bedside. The meeting of father and son under the circumstances was extremely pathetic. There was no doubt that Elmer Comings repented his colish act of seven years ago that drove him from home.

In some way it became known in town that Elmer Comings was back. Mrs. Comings's illness had taken a turn for the better cent. Comings knew he would soon be ar-rested if he remained in Cairo, and under the shade of evening he and his wife left the father's roof. They took an Illinois Central train before Chief of Police Mahoney could secure the necessary papers for Comings's arrest. Chief Mahoney learned that Comings bought sleeping-car tickets for Chicago, and he wired Inspector Shea to be on the depot when the train bearing Comings and his wife arrived. He was arrested as he stepped from the car. Chief Mahoney had followed on the next train, and with he got here his prisoner was at the central

Martial Law Contemplated-Ferling Over the Senare's Action. SAN FRANCISCO, March 15,-The Mariposa, which arrived from Honolulu to-day, brought the following correspondence to the Associated Press, under date of March 81 A rumor was alloat Sunday night to the effect that martial law was to be declared on Monday, but as yet nothing has come of it. The marshal was seen and denied the rumor, but, nevertheless, it is believed that there was some truth in it, and that the government had such an intention. It is known that some fears were felt by the govern-ment, that if news of a nature unfavorable to the ex-Queen's cause should arrive, the royalists would make a last desperate attempt to restore the Queen. For this reason the plan of declaring martial law was proposed, and the government was ready to take steps to prevent trouble. A prominent government official said as much to the Associated Press correspondent to-day, and also that it was only at the last oment that the idea was abandoned. News of the report of the United States Senate committee was received with great demonstrations of joy by the annexation party. They claim that it is the precursor of annexation, and the more sanguine an nounce that this will be attained during the Cleveland administration. The news seem to have affected royalists more seriously than any that has yet been received. The Bulletin, the ex-Queen's organ, is bitterly severe upon the action. News condemnas tory of Stevens's action was confidently expected and the report was a great disap

A Love-Sick Youth's Suicide DANVILLE, Ill., March 15 .- William Donaldson, a young man who had been living with his uncle, Jerry Plotner, near Philo, shot himself through the heart in a fit of jealousy. He was twentv-eight years old and well respected. He was desperately in love with his cousin, Miss Plotner, age seventeen. The young lady favored William Van Meter, who lived in the same neighborhood. On the evening that the suicide was committed Mr. Van Meter was visiting the young lady. This so enraged Donaldson that he went out into the yard and sent a bullet through his heart.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.] LAFAYETTE, March 15 .- The prospects for the G. A. R. Encampment, which is to occur in this city on the 4th and 5th of April, are the brightest in the history of that organization. The local committees have perfected every arrangement that is calculated to make it a success, or that will tend to . make visitors feel that they are welcome. The finance committee reported to a mass meeting of citizens night that they had secured all the funds needed to defray the usual expenses of a gathering of this kind. The hotels have made reduced rates, and the railroads, for the encampment, have made a very low rate. A magnificent "Arch of Triumph" will be erected at the corner of Main A be en Fifth and Fifth streets, opposite the Lahr House, which is encampment head-quarters, and at night 200 electric lights will illuminate this arch. The badges have been prepared, and consist of a bird's eye view of the Soldiers' Home site, on the west banks of the Wabash river, on a high point overlooking the Wabash valley—this white ribbon. He was a member of the benefit associ-ation, and he claimed benefits at the rate of $1.50 per day for fifty-two weeks, and thereafter at the rate of 75 cents per day, but he alleges that the defendant stopped his benefits at the expiration of eight months. He also claims that he is permanently incapacitated from work, and that he is entitled to 75 cents a day so long as he may live. The association numbers 1,500 members.

The court at Angola has been occupied or two weeks and more with the trial of samuel Deeters, who killed Amos Bachtel and his daughter, Mrs. Laura Lowe, and assaulted other parties, among whom was his old and feeble mother, and the case will probably continue for two or three weeks longer. The defense is insanity. The matter is absorbing attention, and much feeling is showing itself over the possibility that the plea of insanity will be entertained by the jury. Something of the temper of the community in Desters's the temper of the community in Deeters's neighborhood may be judged from the lact that within the past week notices were posted in public places in DeKalb and Steuben counties, calling for five hundred men to voluntee to go to Angola and lynch Deeters if the trial is not ended by Saturday night of this week.

The second conference of bituminous operators at Terre Haute resulted in a de termination to stand by the original decision not to accept a reduction in the wage scale, which calls for 70 cents a ton until May 1. The reduction was advised by the national vice president and the national secretary, as well as by the State officers, but some of the delegates came to the concrence instructed to withdraw from the united mine workers if it was insisted upon. The operators insisted upon a 20 per cent. reduction, claiming that it was necessary to enable them to compete with the more cheaply mined coal of Ohio and Illinois. During the conference a circular was received from the national organization, giv-ing the members the right to make the best terms possible in their several localities, and it is expected that this will be acted upon by many of the workers, who insist that the circular is superior to the dictum of the con-

VOTING IN WEST INDIANAPOLIS Placards Posted By City Government

Advocates-Progress of the Voting. In windows and on fences and in other conspicuous places in West Indianapolis this morning were large posters, printed in blue ink, with such announcements as these: "Progressive citizens who wish to keep West Indianapolis napolis abreast of the times will vote 'Yes.' "Vote for city government if you want to have a responsible head, local representation, lower taxes, better government and West Indianapolis rank with other places of its size in the State."

There was a fair early vote. Those in favor of city government were the more active, and had vehicles carrying their voters to the polls. Later in the day one or two carriages were used by the opponents. The weather was thought to be favorable to the city government ivocates.

At noon there had been, in round numbers, At a coon there had been, in round numbers, 40 votes cast at No. 1 polling-place, 65 at No. 2, 60 at No. 3, 70 at No. 4, 80 at No. 5, 70 at No. 6 and 40 at No. 7-a little over one-fourth of the total number of votes in the suburb. It was not expected that more than one-half of the total vote would be polled.

Haughville Trustees, The Haughville trustees discussed the the water-works question last night and out-lined a contract. A map of the town, made by the Water Company, was examined, but the trustees postponed the locating of the hydrants until the contract had been signed. The State board of Health met this after-noon to discuss the progress made toward preventing smallpox from reaching Indiana from Chicago.

ASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY.

John Heck, of Henry county, who disap- RATES ESTABLISHED AT THE STATE TAX CONFERENCE.

> Reports of the Various Committee Defining the Value of Different Kinds of Property - Yearly Meetings To Be Held.

The conference of the State tax commissioners and county assessors was continued at the State House to-day. The committees appointed yesterday met last night and prepared their reports which were discussed to-day. The first report was made by the live stock committee. As adopted by the conference the assessment this year will be as fellows:

as fellows:

Horses—Heavy draft horses: First grade, $500 to $700 each; second, $300 to $400; third, $100 to $200, governed by the breeding qualities and individuality. Light draft stailion roadsters: First grade, $1,200 to $400, governed by the speed shown, individuality and breeding. General purpose stallions: First grade, $200 to $300; second, $100 to $200, governed by the breeding. General purpose work horses: First grade, four to ten years old, $50 to $60; younger and interior horses in the same proportion. Roadsters and speed horses from $100 to $500, speed and individuality to govern. Jacks from $100 to $400. Mules, three to eight years old, $50 to $60 each; younger and older ones in the same proportion.

Sheep—Registered, $10 to $75; common stockers and feeders, $2.50 a hundred.
Chickers—Blooded and fancy, $1 to $5; common, $2 a dozen; ducks, $3 a dozen; geese, $4 a dozen; turkeys, $6 a dozen.
Honey bees, from $1 to $3 a stand.

FARM PRODUCTS. The report of the committee on farm products caused considerable discussion. The value of the products varies widely in different portions of the State, and wide latitude should be given the assessors, it was thought. The report of the committee was adopted, with a few amendments, as follows: Wheat, No. 2, 45c per bushel; corn, 25 to 40c; rye, 35c; barley, 85c; oats, 20c; potatoes, 40c; timothy seed, $1.50; clover-seed, $4; flaxseed, 75c; timothy hay, $6 a ton; clover, $4; beef, 4c per pound; bacon, 8c; bulk pork, 6c; lard, 8c; wool, 15c; tobacco, 3 to 5c; maple sugar, 6c; beef, per barrel, $8; pork, $10; cider, 10c per gallon; vinegar, 10c; wine, 50c; sorghum molasses, 25c; maple, 75c.

It was decided to leave the assessment of tools farming implements and machiners.

tools, farming implements and machinery to the township assessors. County assessors will instruct township assessors to yiew personally all such property.

ASSESSMENT OF MERCHANDISE. There was a prolonged discussion on the assessment of merchandise. The difficulty, some of the assessors said, was to get the true cash value, and it was on this account that stocks of goods were not taxed to the extent that they should be. The committee reported in favor of assessing some classes of goods at 100 per cent, and others at 50 or 60 per cent. The report was amended, and assessments will be made on the basis of 90 per cent, of the invoice price.

BANKS AND BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS. Following is the report of the committee on banks and building and loan associations:

Prepaid building and loan certificates, drawing a stipulated interest and non-participating, shall be assessed to the owner. All loans made by a building and loan association upon personal security and the cash on hand on the first day of April, shall be assessed to the association. Mortgage and personal notes shall be listed at their true cash value. A note wall-secured and drawing 6 ner cent is shall be listed at their true cash value. A note well-secured and drawling 5 per cent. is worth 100 cents on the dollar. Abstract books: shall be assessed by the township assessor and board of review upon information furnished by the owner, the assessment being based on their earning capacity. Horse protection societies shall be regarded as benevolent associations. Property owned by benevolent associations, and used for other than benevolent purposes, shall be listed for taxation. Only special deposits of greenbacks shall be exempt from taxation. The assessment of corporations shall be based on the capital stock and earning capacity. The value of bank stock for tions shall be based on the capital stock and earning capacity. The value of bank stock for assessment shall be determined by adding to the capital stock the surplus and undivided profits. Private banks shall be assessed on the residue of credits after deducting the amount of indebtedness added to cash on hand, cash on deposit with other banks and the value of fixtures.

The committee on household furniture. libraries and musical instruments made a report, in which the articles varied, and the report was returned to the committee with instructions to change it, so that assessments be made at the true cash value. ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S VIEWS.

The Attorney-General said that the statutes required property to be assessed at its true cash value. Any article three years old was of less value than one two years old. One of the cases now passing through the courts was that of the railroads of Indiana against the State Tax Commission, The Board of Commissioners had made the rule that all property, with the exception of railroads, be assessed at 70 per cent. of its value. The railroad assessment was to be for its full value. This was alleged to be a diserimination, and the most serious question of the tax cases now pending. The railroads have been endeavoring to break down the laws of the State relative to taxation, and have spent thousands of dollars to accomplish it. The fight was based on discrimination. If it were indulged in by the asse ors, he said, it would fill the courts with tax controversies. The conference was continued this afternoon. It is the intention to hold a meeting every year. Next year it will be held ear-eier, as it will be the year for assessing real

William P. Jungelaus, builder and con-tractor, is president of the Polar Ice Company. An addition was made to the plant of the ice company without a building permit. In Police Court to-day Mr. Jungclaus was fined $1 for failing to take out a permit. He pulled out a silver dollar in open court as soon as sen-tence had been passed and offered it to Prosetence had been passed and offered it to Prose-cutor Cady. Mr. Cady would not take it, and passed Mr. Jungclaus on to Captain Quigley. The Captain sent him away, and Mr. Jung-claus tried to get Sergeant Dawson to take the money. He was finally directed to the clerk, to whom he said:

to whom he said:

"Here, I've just been fined a dollar. For heaven's sake, take it."

The clerk looked at the capins and told Mr. Jungelaus that the writ called for $11—$1 fine and $10 costs.

"Oh," said Mr. Jungclaus, "I didn't get off as light as I thought."

CURTIS COLLEGE DIPLOMAS. The County Clerk Refuses To Issue Licenses On Them.

The Curtis Physio-Medical College moved here about a year ago from Marion, Ind. Its president is D. B. Snodgrass. Four graduates have presented their diplomas, issued recently county clerk to procure licenses. The clerk refused to issue licenses, saying that the college was not in the list reported to county clerks as reputable colleges. The license law requires the diploma to be from a reputable college, and Clerk Wilson is guided by the list made by the State Board of Health. Mr. Wilson also made personal inquiry among local physicians.

The graduates assert that they will sue for writ of mandate against the clerk. Mr. Wilson says he believes the question is one that should be submitted to a court. It is the understanding that a test suit will be brought. RAID ON AN MPIUM DEN.

Three Chinese and an American Arrested-Two Women Present.

Moy Lee Sing, three other Chinese, and J. L. Langdon were arrested last night in the basement of the Ross Block, in Monument place. The place was supposed Chinese laundry, but police had learned that it was a fully equipped opium "joint." There were wo-men in the place when the officers entered, but they were not arrested. The men were charged with evil association. A complete opium smokers' outfit was found in the IN POLICE COURT.

Moy Lee Sing, Hong Guay, Lo Dill, Sam Lung were in the Police Court this morning, charged with evil associations. With them was Langdon, who was arrested with the Chinese. George Carter, who appeared for the defendants, said that the men were arrested for running an opium "joint," against which there was no provision in the statute; that he understood that women were not in the habit of going into the place in which the Chinamen were arrested, out that two women were sent in for the purpose of making a case. Judge Stubbs said that if this were true there could be no case made. Mr. Cady, the prosecutor, said that he would dismiss the case against Langdon and also against the others, but that he would file affidavit against them for maintaining a public nuisance.

On this charge the cases were continued until Tuesday. The bond was fixed at $50 in each case except that of Sam Lung, who has been a resident of Indianapolis for ten years. He was dismissed on his own word years. He was dismissed on his own word to return Tuesday. Moy Lee Sing, the keeper of the house where the smoking took place, recently arrived here from New York city. He is tall, and Judge Stubbs, finding some difficulty in remembering their names, alluded to him as "Wang."

The police will establish surveillance over several places inhabited by the

After the arrests last night at Moy Sing Lee's place, the police went up Massachusetts avenue to a laundry back of the Wyandott Block. Two Chinese were in the place.

"John," said one of the party, "I want to go against the pipe."

John grinned. Then he displayed his teeth and blinked his almond-shaped eyes as he pointed to a rear room and tip-toed out, followed by the visitors. The other Chinese locked the front door and drew the curtains. The visitors found themselves in a small room, vile smelling and dirty looking. One bed was in the room and in the middle of the bed was a tray, on which rested pipes and a smoker's outfit. "All smokee?" asked John.

'Yes.'

"Tlee dolla." "Hee dolla."
"Moy Lee Sing only charges $2."
"Me charge tlee dollar. Who first?"
"Coat me some first," said one sitting down on the edge of the bed. "John" hopped on the bed at the other side of the tray. In a small box was some dark, sticky stiff with a sidening sweet small. John stuff, with a sickening sweet smell. John took a long needle and twisted it into the stuff until the needle had accumulated a quantity about the size of a pea. This he held over the lamp, turning it as it sizzled and spluttered until it was cooked. He crowded it into the little hole in the bowl of the pipe. The other Chinese stepped in softly and, placing a pillow behind the smoker's head, pushed him down upon it. "John" handed the pipe to him. He took one draw. Almost instantly there was a buzzing in his head and a strong desire on the part of his supper to leave his

Suddenly there came heavy blows on the "Klick! klick!" said John, jumping from the bed and hastily putting the things out 'Whattee want?" asked John in a weak voice. "District with an important message," came back the answer.

"Jig's up!" said one; "we are tipped off."
The detective was correct. The Chinese had received a warning note. It is reported that there are not fewer than seven recognized opium dens in this city. CHARGES FOR GAS.

Discussion by the Unemployed-What the Gas Men Say.

The meeting of the unemployed, to-night, at the Criminal Court, will be for the purpose at the Criminal Court, will be for the purpose of discussing the alieged illegal overcharges by gas companies.

General Manager Pearson, of the Indianapolis company, says that out of 450 cases where the complained of charges are made, five persons have refused to pay the extra charge. He says that the extra charge was made because the gas ordinance authorized the use of gas in cooking-stoves for cooking purposes, and in heating-stoves for cooking purposes. If a stove is used for both purposes it is the contention of the company that both rates can be charged. Mr. Pearson said that charges for connections were made because a necessity existed. "When we take on more consumers we have to increase the capacity of the service. This implies field extensions, which are a constant source of expense, increasing at the rate of 38 per cent. a year. At first we brought gas twenty-two miles; now we are in luck to secure it at fifty-four miles. We are almost unable to secure leases for gas wells in the gas field now." "It is asserted that the constitutionality of the gas ordinance will be attacked?"

"We have no such purpose. We are satisfied and will continue to do business at the legal rates."

Manager Lyman, of the Consumers' Gas Trust said that all the charges made by that company were for necessary expenses incurred by taking additional consumers, which is without profit, and frequently at a loss. The company has never charged extra for stoves used for double purposes. of discussing the alleged illegal overcharges

The suit of Mrs. Josephine F. McDonald against the firm of McDonald, Butler & Snow, in which she alleges that the accounting with her husband's estate was insufficient, ner nusoand's estate was insumcient, was argued before Judge Brown to-day. The defendants allege that Mrs. McDonald is not competent to sue, and that the administration of the estate should be the plaintiff. They also hold that if she is permitted to sue, then the administrator should be a defendant.

McBride Acquitted.

The case of Riley McBride, charged with crime against his own daughter, Nellie, age sixteen, was called for trial before a jury this sixteen, was called for trial before a jury this morning. McBride was indicted on the testimony given to the grand jury by his daughter. She was the first witness this morning. She testified that he was not guilty of the crime and that she had never told any one he was or that she had testified to any such state of facts. McBride was acquitted. At the request of Prosecutor Holtzmau, however, the young woman was stopped as she le t the stand and Judge Cox committed her to the custody of the sheriff to await grand jury investigation on a charge of perjury. It is alleged that she made criminating statements vestigation on a charge of perjury. It is leged that she made criminating statemen

BRAZIL'S IMMEDIATE FUTURE. INTEREST in Brazilian affairs now centers in Dr. Prudente de Moraes, who was elected President to succeed Peixoto on the first day of this month. Now that the rebellion, which Mello and Da Gama began last September, is practically at an end, the important business before the republic is to restore tranquility and avoid further disturbances. There have been two great issues in the rebellion, namely, the land revolution, which began in Rio Grande do Sul, and the revolt of the navy, ander Mello's leadership. The outbreak to Rio Grande do Sul gave the impulse to me whole rebellion. The people of this and of other southern States, Santa Catharina and Parana, have long desired separation from the main body of the republic. It will be easy enough to reorganize the navy, but to reconstruct these southern States which have little in common with Rio Janeiro may be more difficult. This tedious rebellion has had no intrinsic merit as war, but it has been likened to the Scotch wars of the clans in its ferocity. There was no direct connection between the revolts of the navy and of Rio Grande do Sul, though Mello he had not been encouraged by the diversion in the south.

Dr. Moraes, who will presently succeed Afterward he was president of the constitutional convention, which created the present constitution, and later he had been presiding officer of the Federal Senate. He will be the first President chosen office, through emergencies attained arising ill-feeling between the The magnified into ugly jealousy, should now be subordinated to the business of civil reorganizati n, and if all that is said a pound. of him is true, Dr. Moraes is well fitted for general reo inization and conciliation. On his shoulders is the responsibility of establishing Brazil as a united and stable republic. It is unfortunate that he does not take the office until November, for in the present crisis Peixoto is not a figure to inspire confidence in those who have lately been in rebellion. The fact that his successor has organs throughout the country, which are been chosen will have a tendency, in the unsettled state of affairs, to defer any portant thing is for their party to strong popular movement for a readjust-

CLEAN STREETS. Bros for street-sweeping which have been opened show such surprising differences as to suggest that the Board of Public Works should be very careful in letting the contracts. There are differences of 50 per cent. in many cases. Where one contractor concludes that it will cost him 10 cents to keep other offers to do it for 5 cents. Somebody is mistaken, and mistaken probably in judgment as to what constitutes a clean street. Apparently, one contractor's idea of a clean street is different from another contractor's idea. board's idea is to govern. The degree of cleanliness required is that dust shall not be raised by passing vehicles or conditions of atmosphere. This is, perhaps, as plain a specification as can be made, and yet it will be recognized that it describes a condition different from that of a completed house, for instance. On bids for building a house there can be no dispute as to whether the house is built. But there can be dispute as to whether a street is clean or

We point the Board of Public Works to the fact that our asphalt streets, with the exception of the streets around the Monument, have never been kept clean. So we would warn the board that its standard must be higher than any that has been exacted heretefore. We want clean streets, not halfway clean streets, with the center swept and dirt left scattered along the We want the corners cleaned. We suggest that the board shall carefully scrutinize these bids, and see to it that the successful bidders understand what a clean street is and what they have got to do.

In this connection, it is pertinent to add that the Board of Safety should cooperate with the Board of Works, Without the enforcement of the law against sweeping refuse into the street, it would be impossible to keep the streets clean. If the Board of Safety wants to see how this law is ignored let it look at Washington street and Illinois and Pennsylvania streets any morning about 7 o'clock. There can then be seen instance after instance in which store and sidewalk dirt is swept into the street which but the night before has been made passably clean by the street sweeper. There should be rigid enforcement of the law against this and against throwing paper and banana skins on the street. People whose appearance would warrant better things of them litter the streets with banana peelings without thought, apparently, of any Cleanliness is a habit. We Americans are still in a very primitive condition so Let us go forward here. We are singularly blessed in Indianapolis. We have fuel which gives a clean atmosphere, while the general conditions of life are such as to make it easy for us to have clean streets. On all our paved streets we should begin rigidly to enforce the laws of c'eanliness, and so the habit will grow, and actually we shall get to liking it!

THE HOUSE OF LORDS IS SAFE. YESTERDAY the Liberal leader in the House of Commous, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, gave notice that the government move to reject the amended in reply to the Queen's speech, and substitute another one for it. Mr. Balfour, Conservative leader, and Mr. Chamberlain, Liberal Unionist, both declared that the government could count upon their support, and even Mr. Labouchere said that he really did not mean it-that is that the vote of

as a vote of want of confidence in action in the execution of what the majority of its supporters in the country demanded." So the new address, which is a most innocuous document, was adopted and the thrilling incident may be regarded as closed for the present.

There is one very obvious moral to it all-and that is the gentlemen who are charged with the duty of carrying on the government, as well as the conservatives, should not, too many of them, go to dinner at the same time. The Radicals and the Irish do not seem to feel the promptings of hunger as do the country gentlemen who constitute the bulk of the English members. They are always on duty, always alert, always looking for the chance that came to them Tuesday night. So it will be well always to have present a majority as against the Irish members and the Radicals. Next time the gentlemen may vote to abolish royalty or to cut off the head of the Archbishop of Canterbury, which would be most embarrassing.

But the House of Lords is safe. The world can still revolve on its axis. Lord Rosebery need not resign. Peace reigns, and the old order is undisturbed. All of which should be most encouraging to that body at Washington, which is supposed to assist in making laws for the American people, but which chiefly busies itself in rejecting worthy judicial nomi nations and passing laws for the benefit of its own members. It is not likely that the House of Lords or the Senate will ever be abolished. But it is as sure as anything in the future can be that they will be reformed.

LOWERING THE STANDARD.

THAT a paper with the high ideals which the New York Post has should occasionwould hardly have ventured to rebel if ally fall below them is not, perhans, surprising, but it is always discouraging to the people all over the land who are in an humble and obscure way fighting Peixoto, is vouched for by Minister Men- in the army in which the Post is so donca as a man of high character. These reflections are suggested by an editorial in the New York Post, which was printed in these columns yes terday, advising revenue reformers to accept the Senate bill substantially as it was reported from the sub-committee. by popular vote, his predecessors having We do not care to go into particulars at the present time, further than to say that, the overthrow of the in our opinion, the Post is right in its advocacy of the sugar duty, only we inarmy and the navy, which had been sist that there shall be no discrimination in favor of the trust, even if that dis-

It is the lowering of the political standard to which we object. With all due deference to so important an authority, fi.th our size in Indiana that permits biwe must protest against the odious theory "that the first and most necessary thing is to prepare a bill that can be passed.' When the Post gave utterance to that pestiferous doctrine it ranked itself below the majority of the strictly Democratic insisting that the first and most imneed be no trouble about preparing "a ington, crowds of men line the curb-stone bill which can be passed." If the tariff reformers will consent to a measure which protects the railroads and coal mines of Messrs. Brice and Gorman, the collars and cuffs of Mr. Murphy, the sugar of Messrs. White and Caffery, the fruit of who take their stand at these places and for Messrs. Perkins and White, the iron ore hours deluge the sidewalk with tobacco of Messrs. Morgan, Pugh, Harris and juice, poison the air with tobacco smoke and Bate, such a measure would pass without make people's ears tingle with their remarks. difficulty. But what would be the use of passing it? It is just this temper of mind that the Gormans and Brices count on. They know-none better-that the people are patient and long-suffering, and that they soon weary of the struggle for their rights. Wrathful denunciation they expect; but they also expect that the people them their utmost demands. The Post's theory is capable of wide application. It has been used-and legitmately, if it be a true theory-to justify almost every disgraceful nomination that has ever been made. How often have we heard it said that Mr. So-and-so was a very good man, but then "he can not be elected": while the other Mr. So-and-so is admitted to be a rogue, but then he can win, and "the first and most important thing is to nominate a man who can be elected." Is not that what the "practical" politicians say? And is not the doctrine true in one case as another? If the Democratic party had taken such counsel in 1892 it would not have nominated Mr. Cleveland, Expediency, of course has its place-and a large placein party politics. Great things have been accomplished by wise compromises. But, after all, there is such a thing as principle, and a defeat for conscience sake is much more likely to bring about the desired practical result than is a victory when principle is completely abandoned. In discussing the iron ore duty, which, the Post says, is "a serious mistake and a thing to be resisted by the House-not to be resisted at' all hazards, but to be fought over in earnest." the Post goes on to speak of "leaving out of view the matter of principle involved." We do not see how this can be done. It is a scandal and disgrace to tolerate legislation which ruins industries and closes factories on the Atlantic seaboard in order that the Mesaba people, who can mine ore at a labor cost of 4 cents a ton, may have absolute control of the market. One other statement in this editorial is worthy of notice: The prosperity of the country depends more upon the equilibrium of the national treasury than upon any other single matter within the scope of the government's powers.

This bald statement is true neither in what it assumes nor in what it states. A far as municipal cleanliness is concerned. prosperous country is usually a happy country, but when it is assumed that prosperity is the chief end of legislation we get into difficulties at once. What constitutes prosperity? What has legislation to do with creating prosperity? Whom shall we make prosperous?

But if we steadily adhere to this idea, that the end of legislation is to establish justice-which should be the supreme aim -we avoid all difficulties and do the right thing. A prosperous country is one in which every man is guaranteed the unimpeded use of his own faculties for his own development. And such prosperity has little to do directly with the "equilibrium of the national treasury." But it has everything to do with maintaining in its integrity the right-of the people to govern

Many men are arrested in the act of gambling Four men are fined. The proprietor, who has given bail for the arrested gamblers, offers to plead guilty to the charge of keeping a gambling house, if the will make his fine light, Court Court refuses. The case is tried before a jury, and the jury acquits. That is to say, a man who, by offering to pay a fine, had admitted the charge against him, is found innocent of that charge by an exceptionally intelligent jury! Verily, great is trial by jury of one's peers in such cases. The grotesque plea was set up that Mr. Harry Walker did not know that gambling was going on in his room set apart for the use and delectation of men who wish to play. And this plea carried with the jurytwelve good men and true. We think gambling fraternity ought to feel pretty cheerful over the result. The police, we trust, will not be discouraged. They know gambling when they see it. Let them continue to do their duty whether prosecutors, courts and juries do theirs or not.

Indianapolis is "outside of a town or village." Maybe it's a swamp.

FUNNY that a man can keep a gambling house and not know it! But this same can be done in this town in great shape-according to the jury.

WE are glad that the Board of Public Works has not yet finally decided to mar the chief street of the town with a patchwork pavement. That is to say, the Board of Public Works has not yet finally decided to pave Meridian street with brick from the Union station to Maryland street. We sincerely trust that it will "decisively" against brick. Tennessee street is asphalted from the Union railway tracks north for half a mile. Illinois street is asphalted from the Union station to Seventh When it comes to improving South Meridian street, the chief street of the city; the street best built up; the street of the monument; the street that gives the first full view that most travelers have of the State's great work-when it comes to improving this street only the latest improvement should be considered. To have a patchwork pavement on this principal street would expose our taste and enterprise to conclusions greatly to our detriment. Wherever else we have brick, do let us have asphalt on South Meridian street from the railway station to the monument.

Mr. HARRY WALKER must be happy in the thought that twelve good men and true, all eminently respectable, can be got together in this town who decide that he does not know what goes on in his shop.

SUPERINTENDENT POWELL announces that he intends to have the sidewalk ordinance rigidly enforced: that he will cause the arrest of bicycle riders, and of peddlers who use the sidewalks with their hand-carts. That is right. There is not a town of onecycles on the sidewalks as Indianapolis does, while no self-respecting city, that we know of, allows peddlers to use the sidewalk for a thoroughfare. The order ought also to include the loafers on Washington street. The persistence with which the corners of Washington street, particularly at Illinois, are obstructed by crowds of loafers is remarkable. At these corners and to some degree at the corners of Mekeep faith with the people. ATTORNEY-GENERAL SMITH could have glutted his ire against the reporter more effectually by hurling one of his long opinions at him.

San Francisco newspapers have undertaken to crush the cigarette habit among minors. They have already secured a strict enforcement of the law to this end. There is quite as loud a call for similar action in Indianapolis. There is a law prohibiting any one from giving or selling cigarettes to minors under sixteen years old. The law is ignored by druggists and tobacconists would be insulted if they were told they were not law-abiding citizens. Yet indefiance of law they sell to children the pernicious, almost deadly. cigarette. Its effects can hardly be overestimated. It is time there should be some quickening of the public conscience. An example or two made of men who ignore this law might be a help toward this end. The habit of smoking is spreading with fearful rapidity among children by means of the insidious cigarette and because dealers in the article no more respect the law than gamblers respect the law against gambling.

Ir is a mere coincidence, perhaps, that heavy rains and the Prohibitionists arrive in the city together.

THE New York Senate has passed a law against hazing. Students can not, therefore, kill any one of their fellows in that State without punishment.

It is hoped that the monument commisioners will prosecute to the extent of the law the vandals who have carved their hideous names on the monument. Warnings that such infraction will be punished to the full extent of the law are made in such places. We want to see this warning lived up to. It is the only way the Monument can be protected. There should be no exception, no palliation.

Twenty schooners delivered nearly 3,000 skins at San Francisco, nearly 7,500 skins were sent to that port from the Pribyloff islands, and the Russian Sealskin Company sent to San Francisco from Petropaulovskinearly 33,200 skins.

Our professor was lately lecturing at the "Annex" to a class of three. In the course of his talk he came to an exposition of his views as to woman's functions in the body politic. "Women," he is reported to have said, "are merely the element of beauty in life; their business is to make life graceful, and they can't do that, you know, unless they themselves are pretty and graceful. If a girl is not pretty, she might just as well vanish from the face of the earth—that is," he qualified, as he gazed at the three sober, spectacled faces in front of him, "er, unless—she's tolerably pretty, you know."—

DA GAMA AND DE MELLO.

They Will Probably Be shot If Caught by Brazilian Officers

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 15 .- The triumph of the government of Brazil over the insurrection, begun by Admiral De Mello and carried on in this bay by Admiral Saldanha Da Gama, has been sealed by an act of executive clemency. President Peixoto yesterday issued a proclamation decreeing for the rebel sailors and soldiers who surrendered unconditionally, giving up, without firing a shot, all the ships and fortified positions in the bay, which had been in possession of the insurgents. But at the same time he in effect pronounces sentence of death upon Admiral Saldanha Da Gama, Admiral Custo-die de Meilo and all the officers associated with them in rebellion. The President does not condemn them to be shot, in so many words; he simply announces his de-termination to subject them to trial by court martial.

The condemned chiefs of the revolt will have to be caught, however, before the death penalty can be inflicted. Admiral Da Gama and his officers, it is now learned, sought an asylum on a foreign vessel. It is the current belief here that the intention was to take the rebel officers to the most central vert of Manterials in Universal. court martial. was to take the recei officers to the most neutral part of Montevideo, in Uruguay, though it is possible that they may have been put ashore on the coast where they could join Admiral Mello. Admiral Mello was seen in Montevideo a month ago, and it was thought that he had fled from Brazil. But a subsequent report from Argentine says that he with the port from Argentine says that he, with the Aquidaban and Republica, is at Ihal Grande, which is only about seventy miles to the south of Rio. THE PICKWICK CLUB BURNED. One of the Most Famous Resorts o

the South-A Heavy Loss.

NEW ORLEANS, March 15 .- The famous Pickwick Club Building, at the corner of Canal and Carondolet streets, one of the finest and best known places in the South, was practically ruined by fire this morning. It was a little after 7 o'clock when the smoke and flames were seen issuing from the rear of the building on the fourth floor of the structure. The bookkeeper and other employes were in the building at the time, and they quickly gave the alarm. The fire-bells summoned the department to the scene, but before the first engine had reached the corner of Canal and Gravier streets the fire had attained serious proportions, and a general alarm was turned n. The flames quickly ran through the upper stories, finally bursting through the roof and gutted the club-house before they were subdued. The department worked three hours before the fire was under control and County they are subdued. trol, and Canal street was soaked and troi, and Canal street was soaked and jammed with crowds of people, who watched the efforts to save the building.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by an electric motor in the building. The club fronted on Canal and Carondolet streets, and Iwas four stories high, capola and exterior ornamentation. The two upper floors were completely burned out, the second badly dismoved and the first much second badly damaged and the first much injured by both fire and water. On the top floor there was a kitchen and a large assembly room, on the third a restaurant, pantries and private rooms; on the second floor a cafe and billiard room, and on the bottom floor a public and a ladies' restaurant public and a ladies' restaurant and the floral establishment of R. Maitre. The building is ten years old and cost $130,000. It had been elaborately furnished, at a cost of $40,000. The loss on both build-ing and furniture will be very heavy. Many valuable paintings and much fine statuary was saved. There was $34,000 of insuranon the furniture and $100,000 on the building. The Pickwick is one of the oldest and most aristocratic clubs in the South.

AN INDIANA MAN'S CRIME. A. R. Beal, of Hartford City, Mu ously Assaults His Wife.

DUBUQUE, Ia., March 15 .- A. R. Beal cut his wife's throat and then his own yester-day afternoon. He lives at Hartford City, Because he failed to support her, his wife deserted him last September. She has been living with her widowed mother here. Last Saturday Beal Jeft his sister's home at Muncie, Ind., for the avowed purpose of recovering his wife or killing her and himself, He reached here Sunday night and visited his wife. She promised, he says, to go to housekeeping as soon as he got a job, and he thereupon surrendered his revolver to her. Monday he applied for work and was given hope of employment yesterday. He applied yesterday and was refused Meanwhile his wife had agreed to meet him at the postoffice at 1:30 o'clock. At this hour she was wheeling her baby by a park, when he approached and said, "Ella, have you a good word for me?"

She refused to leave her mother, whereupon he drew a large pocket-knife and stabbed her in the neck. The second slash ook the thumb of her left hand nearly He continued to plunge the knife into her until the woman's screams attracted men, who sprang upon Beal, whereupon he made two or three desperate lunges at his own throat, slashing it terribly. The knife was knocked out of his hand, whereupon he shouted, "I loved her and she wouldn't live with me. God forgive me. I'm crazy. Hang me to the nearest tree." Mrs. Beal will die, WEDDING GUESTS POISONED. Three Hundred People Seriously Ill From the Food at the Feast.

BOSTON, March 15-More than eight hundred guests participated in the wedding festivities of Henry Feinberg, of Worcester, and Miss Ida Margolies, daughter of Rabbi Margolies, of this city Tuesday night. Out of that number fully three hundred were victims yesterday of poisoning, caused, it is thought, by eating food that was cooked in two old copper boilers. The principal articles of food eaten were chickens, chicken giblets and pickled tongue. Over ninety chickens were killed by Rabbi Margolies on Saturday and Monday, and he is posi-tive that the chickens were fresh and pure, and that the fault was in the cooking, which was done by a local baker. So great was the crowd of guests that a second supper-table was necessary, and it is thought that most of the victims were those who are at that sitting, as the food was taken from the bottoms and sides of the boilers.

In those parts of the city in which the Jews live every physician had from five to forty cases yesterday. All of those affected are recovering. Some of the people suspect the poison was purposely put in the food, but there is no evidence of this.

A VERDICT FOR $25,000. Heavy Damages Awarded Against the

New York, where he is engaged in many enterprises.

Three years ago Mr. McMillen was caught in a wreck on the Big Four road, six miles west of Indianapolis. The accident was caused, it is charged, by a defective tie. Mr. McMillen's injuries were at first supposed to be fatal, and he was confined to his house for months and compelled to use crutches. He asserts that he was crippled for life, and, besides the physical and mental anxiety suffered, he claims to have sustained large financial losses because of his inability to attend to business. He sned for $50,000. The case was thoroughly con-tested, John T. Dye being the principal at-torney for the defense. The size of the verdict excited general surprise. The case will, of course, be appealed.

HIGH PRICES FOR STAMPS. Rare Specimens Purchased By Collectors in New York Yesterday.

NEW YORK, March 15.-Rare stamps brought high prices at a sale of the collections of Wm. F. E. Gurley, of Springfield, Ill., and others, at the rooms of the Philatelic Society. The gem of the Gurley Philatelic Society. The gem of the Gurley collection was a five-cent Livingstone (Ala.) Confederate stamp, on the original envelope. On this the bidding started at $80 and was very lively, the prize being knocked down to $576. Two Macon (Ga.) stamps, five cents, black on yellow, brought $36 each. They were on the original envelopes. The five-cent Macon, with plain frame, on the original envelopes brought the high price of $102.

Some United States Department stamps brought good prices. A two-cent navy "Error," printed in green sold for $8; a twenty-dollar State department, unused, brought $31; and a five-hundred-dollar revenue stamp brought $72,50.

AN EASY WAY TO ECONOMIZ An Indianapolis Woman's Method of Saving the Dollars.

New Clothing Made from Old By Diamond Dyes -Spring Dresses, Suits and Wraps with No Expense for New Material-Dressing with Little Money. In these hard times an Indianapolis woman has found diamond dyes the greatest help in economizing. With their aid, her shusband, her children and herself have dressed comfortably, although nearly all the clothing was old material, dyed over. Diamond dyes make such beautiful colors that goods dyed with them can not be told from new. Any one can use them, as the directions are so plain and simple that no skill is needed. The color is there to stay, and will not wash, wear or fade out.

Silk, cotton, wool, dresses, cloaks stockings, feathers, laces, carpet rage, are all easily colored by diamond dyes. They are specially prepared for home use, and the makers guarantee them, the strongest and fastest of all dyes. Use a package and see how easy it is to dye at home. The diamond are the original package dyes, and no one should accept any of the inferior substitutes that are some-times kept by dealers for a larger profit. Many of the dyestuffs in diamond dyes are original discoveries that symplify the work, and can not be had in other dyes. Insist on having the diamond, and you will always be successfull in home-dyeing.

CONGRESSMAN DE FORREST DIS-CUSSES THE CIVIL SERVICE LAW.

Amendments That Are Needed-Mr. Fithian Still For American Ships-The Russian Thistle Pest-The Methods To Exterminate It.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15 .- Congressman DeForrest, chairman of the committee on reform in the civil service, was asked to-day if he thought that any considerable number of Congressmen would like to repeal the civil service law. There are several bills pending before his committee to abolish the civil service commission. "I think not," Mr. DeForrest replied. That is to say that there are very few entatives in either party who would, if the sole responsibility were placed on em of determining the matter, decide to abolish the law. At the same time, it is lly satisfied with the law as it now stands.

"Amend it in what particulars?"

"There is a feeling that the methods of examination in many cases are not well calculated to test the actual qualifications of the applicant for the office which he seeks."

"But Commissioner Roosevelt doesn't received your large great interview upon agree with you. In a recept interview upon this subject he declared emphatically that the questions propounded are most prac-tical, and in all cases pertinent."

ONE FAULT OF THE LAW. I'm telling you about the feeling of publie men regarding the law. You can't make them believe that these examinations, as a whole, are well adapted to display the actual qualities of the applicants. The law, in my judgment, has one great deficiency: that is the obstacles which it opposes to the reinstatement of a person who has been unfairly discharged from the public service.

As the law now stands, if more than one year has elapsed since his dismissal, he in't be reinstated without again submitting to an examination in order to obtain a place on the eligible list. I think this is wrong.

on the eligible list. I think this is wrong. I think that the appointing power should be enabled to reinstate an employe who has been improperly discharged, if satisfied with his present fitness, even though he be not upon the eligible list and though more than a year may have passed since he was dropped from the rolls."

"What do you think of the bill introduced by Mr. Everett of Massachusetts, to extend the operations of the law to postmasters of svery degree, they passing an examination, and the three having the best record being certified to the commission, as is the case now with the clerks in the executive departments?"

partments?"
"I think that most men look upon the proposition as chimerical. It is too long a stride to take at present and without more careful consideration."

"There are several bills before your com-mittee to create a term of office beyond which the incumbent can not hold. What do you think of those?" SHOULD NOT REMAIN FOR LIFE.

"In a general way most men would ap-rove of some law of that character, if the etails could be arranged to their satisfaction. I think that every man in the public service should be retired after a reasonable term. Don't understand me as meaning that these men should be pensioned. My purpose is simply to retire them, and fill

"Would not this be a great injustice to faithful public servants who had devoted the best years of their life to the work of the Government?"

"I would not make the term short, but, on the other hand, I would not let them remain until they were unfitted either to discharge the duties of the Government to to engage in other work, but I would retire them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit them at a period when they could find different employment, and when their credit.

THE BUSSIAN THISTLE PEST.

Its Enormous Spread - Measures Sug-

SHINGTON, D. C., March 15 .- Assist ant Secretary Dabney, of the Department of Agriculture, has sent to Chairman Hatch, of the House committee on agriculture, a copy of the latest report on the Russian thistle submitted by the division of botany department. The report was made by L. H. Dewey. In communicating it to Mr. Hatch, Mr. Dabney says that, "with regard to the further investigation of this subject, I think you will find, after the thorough work which has been done upon extending over several years and em-died in two reports, little more remains bodied in two reports, little more remains to be done. We may safely rely upon an enlightened unselfishness in the various States to do all that remains to be done."

The report notes that the Russian thistle made its appearance in this country a few years ago in the wheat-raising region of the Northwest. The damage already done by it is estimated at several million dollars, and the thistle is rapidly spreading over new territory and being more destructive in the region already infested.

Complaints about the plant were first received by the Department of Agriculture during the fall of 1891, and during the dry season of 1893 the weed reached unusual development, and the sarmers became sorely alarmed at the situation. A single plant of average size, two to three feet in diameter and weighing from two to four pounds when dry, bears about 20,000 to 30,000 seeds. Plants have been found six feet in diameter, and estimated to bear 200,000 seeds.

THE INFESTED REGIONS. At this time all the counties of South Dakota east of the Missouri river, and twenty counties of North Dakota are infested with the weed, and the plants have crossed to the west side of the Missouri river in at least four places in those States. Two counties in western Minnesota, three in stern Iowa, and four in northeastern Nebruska are thoroughly impregnated with northwestern Iowa, and four in northeastern Nebraska are thoroughly impregnated with the weed. Altogether, this makes one almost continuous area of about 40,000 square miles which has become more or less covered with the Russian thistle in the comparatively brief period of twenty years. There are, besides, many isolated localities along the railroads as far east as Madison, Wis., west to Denver, Col., and south to the southern border of Nebraska, where the plants have been introduced.

The rapidity with which the Russian thistle has sprend far exceeds that of any weed known in America. The most active mode of distribution of the Russian thistle, and the one furnished by nature is the wind; and flaxseed continues to be, in the absence of good fanning mills, the chief artificial agent of distribution. Rallroads form a third and most important means of transportation for the seeds over long distances. There is good evidence that the railroads have carried them in the bedding of stock cars. These cars are sent into the stock yards at Indianapolis, Chicago and Sioux City and unloaded, but they are seldom cleaned until they are again sent out, and have reached their destination, to be reloaded. The plant is as annual, easily killed at any time during the growing season. It produces no seed before the middle of August or the ist of September, and the seed is short-lived. It therefore offers exceptionally good opportunity for being checked or even exterminated. For aux elective mensures, however, there must be concerted action throughout all the lifested area. Sheep are very fond of the Russian thistle until it becomes too coarse and weedy. Pasturing on the young plants, and weedy. Pasturing on the young plants,

SOME REMEDIES SUGGESTED All the remedies given, the report says, are directed to destroy the plants before they produce seed, and these are the only remedies, so far as known, which are effectual or of which there should be any need, except care in cleaning the seed. It has been suggested that each farmer whose land is not fenced make a temporary fence by planting a double row of sunflowers about his farm in each row of sunflowers about his farm in each season. The cost would be slight, and the fence thus made would doubtless aid very much in the fight unless the sunflowers so abundantly produced should become troublesome weeds. The building of wire fences to stop the rolling plants is a remedy strongly advocated by some. Under no conditions whatever should the cheaper grade of seeds be sown without recleaning. of seeds be sown without recleaning.

FOR FREE AMERICAN SHIPS. Congressman Fithian Pushing His Long Continued Measure—His Views.

When the bill comes up in the House an amendment will be offered to strike out the proviso in the bill and admit foreign built ships to free registry for the coastwise trade also. Chairman Fithian believes that the bill thus amended will pass the House. In three consecutive Congresses the Illinois Representative has made a special fight for 'free ships.' In the Fifty-first Congress the committee was Republican and he submitted a minority report. In the Fifty-second Mr. Fithian was not chairman of the committee but a favorable report on the free ship bill was prepared by him and brought before the House. The bill failed to pass, but when the present Congress met, Mr. Fithian was made chairman of the committee on merchant and marine fisheries, and took up the cudgel again for free ships. He tound the Cramps and other ship-builders making a fight against the proposition. The shipbuilding interests claim that they can not compete with foreign ship-builders.

WANT PREE RAW MATERIALS. In their report on the bill the majority of the committee has very adroitly quoted John Roach and Charles H. Cramp on the subject of free raw material. In a hearing before the House committee to investigate the cause of the decline of our shipping interests, Mr. Roach stated in 1869 that the tariff on ship-building material had crippled the American ship-builders. "If Congress will take off all the duties from American will take off all the duties from American iron, reducing it to the price of foreign iron," said he, "then we are prepared to compete with foreign ship-builders. The labor question was mis-stated. We are prepared to meet that difficulty and ask no further legislation on the subject."

Charles H. Cramp at the same hearing said that the average duty on ship-building materials was 40 per cent. "If our ship-builders could be relieved from that, they could compete successfully with foreign builders."

builders."

The McKinley law went to the extent of exempting from duty ship-building materials imported in bond for the construction of vessels to be used in the foreign carrying trade. There was the same provision exempting such vessels from engaging in the constwise trade of the United States.

TITION-JURISDICTION-PRACTICE.

16,672. John Chandler et al. vs. Common 16,672. John Chandler et al. vs. Common Council of the city of Kokomo et al. Tipton C. C. Reversed. Hackney, J.

(1) Sec. 3,659, R. S., 1894, relating to the annexation of territory to a city, only requires that the petition shall set "forth the reasons for such an exation." (2) The statute does not prescribt the reasons which shall be sufficient, as t that question is within the sound discretion of the authority passing upon the petition, and the sufficiency of the reasons will not be reviewed on appeal unless there has been a clear abuse of the discretion. (3) In a proceeding to annex unplatted land under said section, the fact that the land is unplatted is a jurisdictional fact that must be alleged and proved.

WILLFUL INJURY-PLEADING. 1,076. P., C., C. & St. L. Railway Company vs. Daniel Judd, administrator. Reversed. Ross, J.

(1) General allegations charging a willful or intentional injury are sufficient on demurrer. (2) To constitute a willful injury, the act which produced it must have been intentional or must have been done under such circum-stances as evinced a reckless disregard for the safety of others and a willingness to inflict the injury complained of. There is no evi-dence sustaining the theory of willful injury in

STATE.

D. W. Comstock, of Richmond, candidate for the Republican nomination for Supreme Judge from the Fourth district, was born at Germantown, Montgomery county, Ohio, December 16, 1840. He was graduated in the classical course at the Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O., in 1860. Soon after he began the study of the law under Judge M. B. Walker, of Dayton, O. ln September, 1861, he located at New Castle, Ind., at which place he was admitted to the bar by E. B. Martindale, who was at the time Judge of the Eleventh Common Pleas district. In the following year he was elected on the Republican ticket prosecut ing attorney for the Eleventh Common ing attorney for the Eleventh Common Pleas district, an office which he resigned during the first year of the term, having entered the army as a private soldier in Company E, of the Ninth Indiana cavalry, a regiment finally commanded by Col. Eti. Lilly, of Indianapolis. Upon the organization of the regiment he was appointed assembly and the common of the regiment he was appointed assembly and the second of the regiment of the regiment he was appointed assembly and the regiment of the regim ganization of the regiment he was appointed sergeant-major, serving until July 1864, when he was promoted to the first-lieutenancy of Company F. In April, 1865, he was promoted to the captaincy of Company C. He was subsequently detailed to act as assistant adjutant-general of the First Brigade of the Seventh military division of Mississippi. In 1866 he located at Richmond, Ind., where he has since lived. In 1867 he was elected city attorney, holding the position until the political complexion of the Common Council was changed. He was elected prosecutor for the circuit of which Wayne county formed a part for the terms beginning in 1872 and 1874. In 1878 he was elected to the State Senate from Wayne county. In 1879 he was a member of the committee of judiciary, and in 1881 was chairman of the joint committee on revision of the laws. He was not a candidate for re-election. In 1884 he was elected judge of the Seventeenth judicial circuit, and reof the Seventeenth judicial circuit, and re-elected in 1890, having no opposition as a candidate for the nomination.

W. S. Blatchley, of Terre Haute, candidate for the Republican nomination for State Geologist, was born in North Madison, Conn., in 1859. His parents came to Indi-ana in 1860. They lived in Hendricks county for a time and then removed to Bainbridge, Putnam county, where his parents still live. He attended the Bainbridge graded school, began teaching when he was nineteen, and taught four years in Putnam county. In 1883 he entered the State University. While in college he made a specialty of geology and biology under J. C. Brunner and David S. Jordan. He was graduated from the college in 1887. He worked one season on the State geological survey of Arkansas. For the last six years he has been instructor in biology and geology in the Terre Haute High School. In 1891 he was a member of a scientific expedition to Mexico. He is a member of the American Society for the Advancement of Science and a fellow in the Indiana Academy of Science. He has published several papers embodying the result of original scientific research.

Albert H. Purdue, of Yankeetown, Warrick county, candidate for the Republican nomination for State Geologist, was born in Warrick county, Indiana, in 1861. In boyhood he worked on his father's farm and attended the district school. He engaged in teaching at an early age. He was graduated from the Indiana State Normal School in 1886. For several years follow-ing he served as principal and superintendent in city schools in this State. In 1888 and 1889 he took a special course of study at Purdue University. Mr. Purdue, in 1891, resigned a Government position in New Mexico, to which he had been appointed under President Harrison, to enter Leland Stanford University, California, as a student of geology.

Mr. Purdue was able to complete the four years' course in geology in three years.

In 1891 Mr. Purdue did much geological work in California, and in the summer of 1892 he was in the mountains of Arkansas, employed on the geological surveys of that State. He prepared a raised geological map exhibited in the Arkansas building at the World's Fair.

Harry B. Tuthill, of Michigan City, candidate for the Republican nomination for Clerk of the Supreme Court, was born in Dowagiac, Mich., August 2, 1858. His father owned and lived on a farm near that town during the whole of Mr. Tuthill's boy hood and youth, and from the time he was twelve years old he assisted in work on the farm, attending school in the fall and winter. He was graduated from the Dowagiac high-school June 21, 1878. He was admitted to the bar December 2, 1879, and Deted to the bar December 2, 1879, and December 3 located in Michigan City. He did his first campaign work in 1880, and cast his first vote for Garfield. He has been identified with the party ever since. He was elected chairman of the city committee of Michigan City in 1892, and though Michigan City had been the stronghold of Democracy of that county for twenty years, that fall the Republicans elected their county ticket, with the single exception of clerk of court, the gains being almost wholly made in Michigan City. Mr. Tuthill has never held office.

Silas D. Coffey, of Brazil, candidate for the Republican nomination for Supreme Judge from the First district, was born in Owen county, February 23, 1839. He abored on the farm and attended, during the winter months, the common schools of his neighborhood. In the fall of 1860 he entered Indiana University, at Bloomington, as a student, but left college in the following March. While at the university he devoted his entire time to the study of analytical grammar, logic and constitutional and international law. Upon leaving college he entered the law office of Allen T. Rose, at Spencer, as a law student. He enlisted in the army April 19, 1861, and was mustered out June 7, 1864, at the expiration of his term of enlistment. While in the army he studied rhetoric, read the two first books of Blackstone's commentaries on the common law of England, and Stevens on pleading. In September, 1864, he began the practice of law at Bowling Green, in Clay county, in partnership with Allen T. Rose, his old preceptor. This partnership continued until the fall of 1868, when he formed a part devoted his entire time to the study of an-1868, when he formed a partnership with William Wirt Carter, which last partnership continued until March 25, 1881. As a practicing lawyer he was successful, and during the seventeen years devoted to his profession he acquired a competency. In 1866 he was a Republican nominee for district attorney for the common pleas district composed of the counties of Putnam, Owen, Greene and Clay. In 1873 he was the Republican candidate for Judge of the Thirteenth circuit. March 25, 1881, he was appointed judge of the circuit by Governor Porter to succeed Judge Solon Turman who had died. In 1882 he was elected to succeed himself, running 1,222 votes ahead of his ticket in Clay county. In 1888 he was the Republican nominee for Judge of the Supreme Court for the First judicial district, and was elected to the place he now helds. At that election, in his own county, he ran 397 votes ahead of his ticket. 1868, when he formed a part-nership with William Wirt Carter, which

Opinion of the Supreme Court Sustaining Such Action.

The Supreme Court of Indiana, on April 19, 1893, gave a decision on the constitu-tionality of the fish laws, which the Fish Protective Association now cite. The case was a prosecution of David Lewis for having a seine in his possession, and was on appeal from Lake county. The opinion was by Judge Olds. He said:

appeal from Lake county. The opinion was by Judge Olds. He said:

One of the principal objections urged to the law is that it deprives the citizens of a class or species of property, or the right to own and possess the same, which in itself is harmless, and in which there is no inherent evil, and it is not a dangerous commodity. It is contended that a scine is a legitimate piece of property, and that it has lawful purposes. The statute prohibits the use of gill nets and seines except certain kinds or in certain waters. They are not a species of property adapted to any other use. The fact that they are made of material harmless in itself, and valuable for other uses, does not change the right of the State to prohibit the use of or the possession of such material when woven into nets for the purpose or catching fish. This method of catching fish the State has a right to prohibit, and if it has the right to so prohibit the catching, why has it not the right also to prohibit persons having an article of property in their possession used solely for such unlawful purpose. The public has an interest in the protection and growth of fish, and the Legislature has the right to prohibit, their being taken from the waters during certain seasons and by certain means, and has exclusive control over the matter. The conclusion is reached that the statute is valid. The Attorney-General has advised that officials should be careful when seizing fish seines that they do not violate the laws protecting private property.

Other Grains Weak In Sympathy-Some Recovery at the Close-Provisions Firmer and Higher-The Other Markets.

It was on February 16 that May wheat made the low record of 57½c at Chicago. The price has kept above that ever since, but it grazed it at 57½c to-day, recovering later to 58½c. Corn and oats were weak in sympathy. Yesterday's stronger feeling in hop products continued to-day with a further advance.

Indianapolis Wholesale Markets. The spring movement of business seems to be fairly started, and reports of an improving trade are becoming general. In the country farm work has begun, causing a demand for labor and stimulating the business of the retailers. Business is not decreasing in volume from the amount done in the past two weeks, and in some lines prospects are growing brighter, though as a general thing trade is still considerably below the level of last March.

Dry goods continue to show more move-ment, and business has improved enough to cause some encouragement. The general market shows a firmer tone, but business is not active enough to encourage advances.

In hardware considerable is doing in steel goods. Farming and building lines are in demand. Tinners' supplies are beginning to move, and prospects for a good building sea-son are better, though there is not the great life in building in the gas belt that was mani-

CHICAGO MARKET NEWS. Course of Prices In Grain and Provision -Various Influences.

CHICAGO, March 15 .- Wheat was weak to-day on the weather, the indications of tree seeding in the Northwest and weak outside markets in the Northwest and weak outside markets. May opened %c lower at 58%c, and declined to 57%c. Wadham sold freely, and other traders followed his lead while the demand was limited. Later the market became steadier on some export business reported at New York, good export clearances and light primary market receipts. Corn and oats acted in sympathy with wheat, sagging and recovering and closing lower than yesterday. wheat, sagging and recovering and closing lower than yesterday.

Provisions opened steady on hog receipts less than the estimate, and an advance of 5c in prices at the yards. The weakness of the grain markets caused a slight reaction later, but prices closed higher than on yesterday.

A Washington dispatch gives the wheat crop of Argentina in 1893 as 1,920,000 tons, about 64,000,000 bushels. In 1860-it was 1,833,000 bushels, in 1870 it was 2,000,000 bushels, in 1870 it was 2,000,000 bushels, in 1890 4,000,000 bushels.

Chicago.

worked in New Chicago.
Chicago.
Total clearances of wheat and flour to-day were equal to 411,000 bushels of wheat; corn 280,000 bushels.
Primary market receipts of wheat to-day were 289,000 bushels, against 428,000 bushels were 289,000 bushels, against 428,000 bushels last year.

Chicago to-day received 33,000 bushels wheat, 226,000 bushels corn and 201,000 oats, and shipped 20,000 bushels wheat, 127,000 bushels corn and 143,000 bushels oats.

Estimated receipts at Chicago to-morrow: Wheat, 45 cars; corn, 285 cars; cats, 200 cars; hogs, 20,000 head.

Minneapolis to-day received 218 cars of wheat, and Duluth 40 cars, a total of 288 cars, against 235 cars last year.

A special from Fairfax, Minn., says: "Farmers have begun seeding in this vicinity. Ground is in good condition and the weather favorable. The area of grain will be much larger than in previous years."

The area of grain will be much larger than in previous years."

The Cincinnati Price Current says: The past week has been springlike in the central West, with something of freezing and thawing conditions, but nothing has occurred disparaging to the wheat crop of an appreciable extent, and the position remains promising, the average condition being higher than a year ago. The leature of the week has been the Government report on wheat reserves in extent, and the position remains promising, the average condition being higher than a year ago. The leature of the week has been the Government report on wheat reserves in tarmers' hands, by which 114,000,000 bushels is shown, a quantity not looked for by the trade, to be shown by this exhibit, and a quantity, taken with a reasonable view of the absorption of wheat the past season, with the record of exports, stamps the crop estimate of the same office for 1898 as ridiculously inconsistent. There appears to have been an effort to get in line with general recognition concerning the supply of wheat now on hand, and it may be said that this has been done in great style. If there was in fact 114,000,000 bushels in the hands of farmers, it is a safe proposition to say that it was practically impossible for the 1898 crop to have been less than 450,000,000 bushels, and to be consistent it should be recognized as more than 468,000,000. The Cincinnati Price Current of to-day says: The supply of hogs at packing points is well maintained, returns indicating that Western should be recognized as more than 468,000,000. The Cincinnati Price Current of to-day says: The supply of hogs at packing points is well maintained, returns indicating that Western packers have handled 240,000 head for the week, compared with 245,000 head for the preceding week, and 125,000 head last year, making a total of 485,000 since March I, against 285,000 last year. Prices of hogs and product were very decided—downward—during the week. Receipts of hogs at the principal Western markets have steadily grown and are far in excess of a year ago, the most marked increases being at Chicago, St. Louis and Omaha. With the decline in prices of hogs the decline in values of product have been comparatively larger, and, what is more rare, the closing each day for more than a week. has been below that of the previous day, until at the lose of last night May pork was 60c off. May lard 35c off, and May ribs 42%c down from a week ago. The drop in hogs has been less severe, being at Chicago 30@35c a hundred pounds. There has been a better jobbing trade in smoked meats, the South asking more freely for goods, still this has not prevented the downward course. The quality of hogs marketed has been up to the previous condidition—excellent—and continue to show good feeding. The week's exports of hog products were 23,356,000 pounds, against 10,503,000 pounds last year.

CLEVELAND, March 15,—The Iron Trade Review says: Here and there the appearance of CLEVELAND, March 15.—The Iron Trade Review says: Here and there the appearance of new business of fair proportions puts a bright patch on the generally quiet aspect of the iron market, but the monotony is not sensibly relieved. A decrease of 2,500 tons in stocks of coke-iron in February is regarded as significant in some quarters, but the additions to the list of active furnaces since March have already turned the baiance the other way. Yet pigiron producers note a slightly improved demand, albeit the aggregate tonnage of recent sales is thought to be scarcely more than 50 per cent, of that for corresponding weeks of last year. The gaping disproportion between capacity that insists in keeping active and the demands of a lame and halting trade is newly emphasized with every week, and minimums like $15.25 on Bessemer pig, $1.10 on Pittsburg beams and 95 cents on car wheels are the result. The reports from Eastern markets are that mill capacity in that section is scarcely more than 40 per cent, active, and that the advantage largely maintained in finished iron, through lower puddling rates, has disappeared in the onslaught of cheap steel products from Pittsburg.

at the Stock Exchange.

New York, March 15.—The stock maket opened 1/6/4 lower than at the closo yesterday, Louisville & Nashville making the greatest loss, the chief selling in this stock being on the London account. Atchison opened 5/2 and Sugar, Chicago Gas and St. Paul 3/2 per cent. lower. Missouri Pacific has declined 5/4. Erie 3/2 and St. Paul & Omaha 4/2. The governing committee of the Stock Exchange has decided to close the exchance on Good Friday.

In the first hour under an improved feeling Chicago Gas sold up 1/5 per cent. on purchases to cover short contracts. This advance was made in the face of Chicago telegrams asserting that the corporation is preparing to attack the legality of the contract of 1892 between the city and the company. The other leading advances were Missouri Pacific, Sugar 1/2, Distilling and Lead 1/2, and the general list 1/6/2 per cent. Just before 11 o'clock the upward tendency of the market was checked and the market became rather heavy. The indication is that very little if any gold will go out on Saturday. This changed condition of the situation is due to the purchase of securities for the London account during the past two days, which have been largely in excess of the sales, and which have tended to ease the market for sterling exchanges, and consequently to decrease the small margin of profit on such exports, if not to wipe it out altogether. The governing committee of the Stock Exchange listed to-day additional securities of railroad companies aggregating $19,000,000. The committee on securities of the Exchange has passed favorably on the application of the Southern Pacific railroad of California, to list $8,188,000 of its first mortgage consolidated So under the consolidated mortgage of 1893. The governing company has called on the company lor turther information regarding the issue, but took action on the application. NEW YORK, March 15 .- The stock maket

New Use For the Telephone.

[Harper's Young People.]

Here's a story of the telephone as it is used, or abused, in Russia. The use of the instrument to intimidate prisoners is the invention of a police inspector at Odessa. A man was oneday brought into the police station, charged with having committed a serious robbery. The inspector had some difficulty in proving the case, and had recourse to an ingenious stratagem. He went to the telephone in an adjoining room and saked the clerk at the central office to speak asked the clerk at the central office to speak into the instrument the following words, in a solemn tone: "Istno Smellanski, you must confess the robbery. If you don't, you are sure to be sentenced, and your punishment will be all the more severe."

He the cent for the prisoner and ones.

ishment will be all the more severe."

He then sent for the prisoner and questioned him again, threatening to appeal to the "machine" to get at the truth. The thief burst into a laugh, but the inspector held the telephone to his ear and gave the preconcerted signal. The result was as expected. The rogue, terrified by the warning uttered by the uncanny "machine," at once made a clean breast of it.

PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

was adopted without debate. Upon the suggestion of Chairman Haines Henry B. Sayler, of Huntington, was designated to send a congratulatory telegram to Neal Dow, "the father of Prohibition."

THE PLATFORM. The committee on resolutions, through E. A. Devore, of Merom, reported as follows:

The Prohibition party of Indiana, in State convention assembled, acknowledging Almighty God as the source of all true government and His law as a standard to which all ment and His law as a standard to which all human enactment must conform to secure the blessings of peace and prosperity, presents the following declaration of principles:

1. The traffic in alcoholic beverages should be declared a public crime, and as such should be adequately punished. The manufacture, importation, exportation, transportation and sale of such beverages should be suppressed by law, and the Government should have absolute control of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors for all other purposes. THE MONEY QUESTION.

2. We favor the coinage of gold and silver from our mines on the same basis as existed prior to 1873, to be supplemented by paper money, issued only by the general Government, without the intervention of individuals or corporations. All such money should be full legal tender for all debts, public and private, any contract notwithstanding. We favor an increase in volume sufficient to the demands of business, and provide full opportunities for the employment of labor.

3. All limitations to sufrage should apply alite to both men and women, and equal labor should receive equal wages, without regard to sex.

TARIFF LEGISLATION. 4. Realizing how detrimental to the business interests of the country are the frequent ness interests of the country are the frequent changes made in our tariff legislation by the Republican and Democratic parties for partisan purposes, we demand that the tariff question be raised above party politics and placed in the hands or a non-partisan tariff commission, and the tariff regulated according to the needs of the whole people.

5. We favor supplying the deficiency that would be caused in the Nation's revenues from suppressing the liquor traffic by a judiciously conducted income tax.

6. We lavor the establishment of Government savings banks.

6. We tayor the establishment of Government savings banks.
7. There should be a general reduction in official salaries and more economy should be practiced in public expenditures. All official itees should be covered into the public treasuries and officers allowed reasonable salaries for services satisfactorily rendered.
8. The contract system of employing convict labor should be abolished; and all convicts should be employed in the construction and repair of the public highways.

WATCHERS AT THE POLLS.

WATCHERS AT THE POLLS.

9. As a matter of right and justice, we ask the amendment of the election laws of Indiana, so that all parties having places on the legal ballot shall be allowed watchmen at the polls and during the account of the property of the legal ballot shall be allowed watchmen at the polls and during the counting of the votes.

10. We pledge the Prohibition party, if elected to bower, will ever grant just pensions to disabled veterans of the Union army and navy, their widows and orphans.

11. We stand unequivocally for the American public schools and are opposed to any appropriation of public money for sectarian schools.

MINORITY REPORT. A minority report was signed by four mem-bers. This report proposed to substitute for the second paragraph in the majority report the second paragraph in the majority report the following:

"We favor a national currency of gold, silver and treasury notes, issued only by the United States Government, which shall be a legal tender for the payments of all debts, public and private. All such money should be subject to taxation, and its volume should be increased to meet the natural demands of trade and for the employment of labor."

CONSIDERATION OF THE PLATFORM.

It was decided to consider the platform sec-

It was decided to consider the platform section by section. The first discussion arose over the second plank. Henry B. Sayler, of over the second plank. Henry B. Sayler, of Huntington, who, until two years ago was a Republican moved that the minority report be adopted. He looked upon the minority resolution as a compromise, and said this was a question upon which the Prohibitionists could afford to unite. Helen M. Gougar also spoke in tayor of the minority report. B. F. Watson, of Indianapolis, spoke for the report of the majority. He said he hoped the convention would not be carried away by the speeches of the leaders. He pleaded, he said, for the common people, to whom the party must go for votes. Many delegates discussed the two planks submitted, and it was demonstrated that the convention was about equally divided on the silver question.

convention was about equally divided on the silver question.

After the discussion had been continued until nearly I o'clock, the previous question was moved and ordered on the motion to substitute the minority for the majority report on the money question. There was a demand from all parts of the house that the vote be taken by districts, instead of viva voce and Chairman Haines granted the request. The minority report was adopted—325 to 188. The convention adjourned until 2 o'clock over the protests of several delegates, who insisted that it ought to remain in session until the work was finished.

Afternoon Session.

The convention was prompt in reassembling at 2 o'clock. The consideration of the platform, plank by plank, was resumed. There was a free trade substitute offered for plank No. 4. but it was laid on the table, and the plank as reported by the committee was adopted. In the 10th, the pension plank, the word "when" was substituted for the word "when" was substituted for the word "if." The platform was then adopted as a whole by the convention. There were several votes in the negative.

RAISING MONEY. RAISING MONEY.

After disposing of the platform the State committee, through the Rev. Mr. McKenzie, of Lalayette, undertook the raising of campaign oney. Chairman McWhirter said the State aken. It was 3 o'clock before the convention was ready to make a ticket.

HUGHES AND THE PROHIBITIONISTS.

Says He Has a Claim Against the Com-mittee-Now Independent In Politics. J. S. Hughes, formerly of this State, but now of Chicago, is in the city. He was twice nom-inated to head the Prohibition ticket in Indi-ana, running first for Secretary of State and afterward for Governor. On being asked about inated to head the Prohibition ticket in Indiana, running first for Secretary of State and afterward for Governor. On being asked about the outlook for the party in Indiana, Mr. Hughes replied that he could not say anything very encouraging. He thought that the party was managed and run on the same methods of questionable honesty as other parties, and that the members of the party in general had consorted to a policy of repudiation in regard to its own contracts without manly protest. Mr. Hughes declares he will not give any countenance to any party that will uphold or permit what is manifestly unfair and dishonorable. He has not for some time considered himself a member of the Prohibition party. He has always opposed making woman's suffrage a party issue, and being a firm monometalist, scouts all the flat money ideas and deplores what seems to be tendencies in that direction by the party.

On being asked whether he himself had not an unsettled claim of several hundred dollars against the central committee of the Prohibition party, he said that he had, but he had considered it worthless for years. He had pushed it, however, as a means of convincing himself and to show to the conscientious men in the party that the party of late has been managed by the same kind of shuffling temporizing that runs the old party machines.

"It is the committee's own account," he said, "kept and rendered by the committee itself. I never presented my account, feeling sure that by so doing there would not be a possible doubt or a shadow of ground for questioning, I presented the account again to-day, at the request of irlends, contrary to my own feelings and wishes."

"Will it not be considered as your personal controversy?" asked the reporter.

"No, it ought not, for I step aside and leave it between the committee of secretary Shiel and the older committees to settle between themselves."

John Ratliff's committee, Mr. Hughes says, rendered the account by its secretary and appointed a committee to audit and report. The report was app

A Rush For Work, A Rush For Work.

There was a rush for work at Mt. Jackson yesterday morning when the street railroad company began the building of the new electric line. Some of those who were there say there were 700 men crowding around the toolboxes before 7 o'clock, while the contractor needed only 100. The foremen were pushed out of the way, and the men helped themselves, the stronger pushing aside the weaker. The wages paid is $1.10 a day. When one of the boxes was nearly empty a short fellow who could not reach the tools jumped into the box. His rivals closed the lid upon him, mashing the fingers of the hand that held to the edge of the box. To-day there is only half the force of yesterday at

WORK ON SEWERS

Begun To-Day Under Two Inspectors -At Garfield Park.

Work on the big new sewers for which con-tracts have been let by the city began to-day. tracts have been let by the city began to-day. The city civil engineer abpointed two sewer inspectors to watch the new work. They are Rufus Swain and William H. Harrison. Mr. Brown, the engineer, said that he desired to appoint as few additional men as possible until the civil service rules were in force. Thomas Tallentire, who has been superintending the construction of the lake at Garfield Park, was construction of the lake at Garfield Park, was transferred to the engineer's department.

The city engineer notified the contractors for the State ditch sewer to stop work until the water in which they have been laying prick for two days has been pumped from the trench. If the part of the sewer in which brick were laid in water should not prove to be satisfactory, the engineer says the contractors will have to make it good.

able would admit of it, but no definite conclusions were announced.

The board has awarded the contract to grade and gravel Raymond street, which extends along the north side of the park from Madison avenue to Shelby street. Gravel from the park will be used for this work, the contractors paying the value of the gravel to the city. The gravel will come from the bed of the proposed lake, the design being to advance the progress of the lake project.

clude the second stop in a trip that will include the principal cities of the country in which large public works under systematic direction are in progress. Mr. Meryweather commends Indianapolis for engaging in public improvements on a scientific plan. In a discussion of sewers he expressed appreciation of the city's wisdom in adopting plans provided for by such an engineer as Hering. The city of Denver is building sewers, and Mr. Meryweather will endeavor to introduce the system adopted here for carrying off the surplus water in flood times. Speaking of pavements he said asphalt made the best street—clean, noiseless and sanitary. A six-inch concrete base was recommended. As to prices for asphalt he said that Denver had been paying $3.13 a yard to the Barber Company, which said it was using Trindiad asphalt. Recently new local companies had been organized. One of them had used California asphalt with good results in alleys, but had as yet not had success in a wide street. Mr. Meryweather attributed the success of the old companies in part to the fact that they were experienced in handling the asphalt.

Will Use One Material Only.

Will Use One Material Only. Will Use One Material Only.

The Board of Public Works has decided to pave South Meridian street, from Washington to South, with one material. It had been suggested that the first square be paved with asphalt and the rest with brick. President Wildman says that "there will be no Dolly Varden pavement on Meridian street," and that one material will be used the entire length of the improvement. Wholesale men visited the board with petitions in favor of brick. There are also petitions not so numerously signed in favor of asphalt.

MR. GLADSTONE'S RETIREMENT.

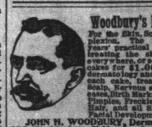

[London Spectator.] But whatever else happens, this will be certain, that English politics without Mr. Gladstone, will for a time be in the highest degree bewildering. The withdrawing of that impressive and perplexing personality will cause many transformations which it will be impossible to anticipate — the shrinkare, perhaps, of some, both friends and foes; the magnifying of other friends and foes; the changing of political proportions; the rise of new problems, the gradual disappearance of old ones. We may be sure of this, that we can not yet in any degree appreciate adequately how great the change will be, how much political "values," to use the word in the technical artistic sense, will be altered by Mr. Gladstone's coming retirement. One thing seems clear, that there will be a deliberate attempt to reform the Liberal party after Mr. Gladstone's retirement. But whatever else happens, this will be

But even with Lord Rosebery, and Sir William Harcourt as his lieutenant in the Lower House, the House of Commons with-out Mr. Gladstone will be a very different House indeed from what it is at the present moment. In the first place, it will command very much less confidence in the country. The confidence of the constituencies was given to Mr. Gladstone himself, and not to his party. Whatever they do, it will be said that Mr. Gladstone would have acted differently, and this the country will always be willing to believe. Mr. Gladstone's retirement will be the signal for the retirement or apathy of a great many cooling Liberals who were Gladstonians only, and hardly anything else. It will be remembered that Mr. Gladstone had his doubts about the eight-hours bill; that he did not give the signal for the attack on the Lords House indeed from what it is at the present about the eight-hours bill; that he did not give the signal for the attack on the Lords till the very last moment, and even then with almost bated breath; that he was very languid about disendowing the Welsh church; that he was always favorable to denominational schools; and that the new leaders take a different line on these subjects with which his will be contrasted. There can be no doubts at all that a great deal of leeway will have to be made up by any Prime Minister who, after Mr. Gladstone retires, takes his place. In the next place, no ministernot Lord Rosebery nor any other—can wield the same influence, or anything like the same influence, in the Cabinet. It would hardly be human nature, and certainly not Sir William Harcourt's nature, to defer to Lord Rosebery as all his younger colleagues deferred to Mr. Gladstone.

The Cabinet differences must become very stone.

The Cabinet differences must become very much more serious and more likely to end in resignations than they have been hitherto with a man of Mr. Gladstone's age, authorwith a man of Mr. Gladstone's age, authority and eloquence to compose them. In the third place, neither Lord Rosebery nor any other will have Mr. Gladstone's chance of overcoming either Welsh obstinacy, or Irish suspicion, or labor fanaticism in the House of Commons. Wales, for instance, has several times been almost in revolt against Mr. Gladstone. The party is now in its most sensitive condition and wet this has several times been almost in revolt against Mr. Gladstone. The party is now in its most sensitive condition, and yet this group of twenty-eight adherents is absolutely essential to the cohesion of the complex and ill-cemented party to which they belong. We do not believe that any successor to Mr. Gladstone can possibly survive these difficulties without an almost immediate dissolution, and the great difficulty will be so to contrive the dissolution that the general election shall not betray at all points the immense void which Mr. Gladstone's resignation will leave behind him. This difficulty has been enormously increased by Mr. Gladstone's last speech in the House of Commons. We have no doubt that he launched that very ill-constructed bomb at the House of Lords at the earnest request of his colleagues, and intended to take upon himself the responsibility of indorsing a policy which he can personally neither superintend nor enforce.

DECISION OF THE SUPREME COURT IN FAVOR OF THE CITY.

Question of Interstate Commerce New Concerned-First Section of the Ordinance Invalid, But It Does Not Affect the Remai

The city of Indianapolis won its suit against the breweries and agencies in the Supreme Court to-day. The controversy was over the payment of $1,000 license, and the decision of the Marion Circuit Court was reversed. The ordinance passed by the city was opposed on the assertion that it was a discrimination in favor of the broweries located here and hindered interstate commerce. In his opinion Chief Justice Howard says that beer stored in depots or agencies is subject to the laws of the State and subject to the same police regulation as if produc the State. The question of interstate merce did not enter into the case. FIRST SECTION INVALID.

The first section of the ordinance, which says the act shall not apply to any resident engaged in the wholesale business of bottling or vending bottled beer, is invalid for two or vending bottled beer, is invalid for two reasons: It discriminates in favor of residents who bottle and sell bottled beer against residents who vend beer in barrels or jugs. The classification thus attempted to be made is arbitrary and can not stand. By striking out this discriminating clause the ordinance will become complete, as it is wholly independent of the part rejected.

No MONOPOLY CREATED.

The opinion says the ordinance does not create a monopoly of the beer business. It means that all breweries, distilleries, depots and agencies must pay $1,000 before they can operate. It might as well be said that one man, owning two or more saleons, could operate them by paying license on one. The city has no more right to give a general license to carry on a brewery business than it has to carry on a saleon business under a general license. The illegal parts of the ordinance may be separated, and the portion requiring $1,000 will still be valid. It is held that the city can pass such an ordinance, as it has the city can pass such an ordinance, as it has the power to restrict the liquor business.

LIQUOR DEALERS' BIG FURSE.

Gigantic Effort to Beat the Stehlin Case and the Judges. It was stated on good authority to-day that the organized liquor dealers of the State would again oppose the decision of the Supreme Court in the Stehlin case, which the court declined yesterday to consider. Representatives of the Liquor Dealers' League have said that the league would raise $50,000 to be used in the coming State election to defeat members of the aspire to re-election. These are Judget Coffey and Dailey. It is reported that the league will not make another attempt to revive the question in the Supreme Court until after the November election. One of the attorneys says that the liquor men had not given up the contest, and that it would continue until it had won. CHOKED HIMSELF TO DEATH.

he has sufficient evidence to warrant a verdict of suicide.

About four weeks ago Cooper made his appearance at the house of Mrs. Hacker, No. 32 North Mississippi street. He was not a regular boarder but would come at odd times. Tuesday evening he appeared at the house, ate his supper and went to bed. In the morning he did not get up, and after waiting for some time the people of the house went to his room. Cooper was found ill on his bed. He was nearly unconscious when found, and the city dispensary was at once notified. After the ambulance arrived the physicians decided to take the man out to the City Hospital. When he arrived there it was found that underneath a handerchief which he had around his neck a whip cord was tightly tied. It was cut at once, but did not seem to afford much relief. The man never regained consciousness and died at noom.

At his room a card was found by the corones which said: "In case of my death notify Kregelo, Son & Irwin."

Mr. Kregelo says he has known Cooper for three years. He was well-educated. His enemy was strong drink. He was despondent because he did not get along better in the world. Mr. Kregelo does not know of any immediate relatives he had, but believes he had friends in St. Louis.

prospects are favorable for large rops of grain and fruit in Indiana this car. It is early to make safe predictions, out the reports from farms to date are exmely encouraging. Wheat, in fact, has not promised better in ten years. It is far enough along to be out of the way of an ordinary freeze. Its danger, if any exists, will ome from the weevil and the drought. Spring has come with due hesitation. In act there has been a spring this year for the first time in several years. The usual thing of late years has been for summer to some almost without a transition period from winter. The steady progress toward warm weather has retarded the development of small fruits, and this is encouraging. For two years the premature fruit buds have been nipped by early frosts. If the weather continues as it has begun, the farming community hopes for a large fruit crop. Even the peaches so far are alive. Small fruits are promising well.

Indiana Trust and the Lafayette Deal. John P. Frenzel has been in New York representing the Indiana Trust Company of this city, which was the agent for a syndicate, headed by C. F. Mr. Frenzel verifies THE NEWS's telegram of last night that the sale News's telegram of last night that the sale was consummated yesterday. The price was $650,000 for the natural gas plant, and $190,000 for the artificial plant. Mr. Frenzel says that the sum of $840,000 in cash was paid over by the Indiana Trust Company. It collected the stock from the various stockholders and took charge of all the bonds as they were gathered in. Mr. Frenzel says that the deal just completed is the first one of the kind transacted by an Indiana institution. Prospect-Street Improvement.

In your issue of Wednesday there is a communication from a property-owner in Prospect street, in which he opposes street improvement for that street, claiming that sewerage and artificial gas lines should first be laid. As far as sewerage is concerned, I have it from the authority of the city engineer that no sewer is to be laid in Prospect street, and as to artificial gas lines, I would think that this light will soon be a light of the past, as the electric light will most surely take its place.

WONDERFUL KINETOSCOPE.

THE SECRETS OF THOMAS A. EDI-SON'S LATEST INVENTION.

How He Contrives to Make 920 Photographs Pass Before the Eye In Twenty Seconds-What We May Soon See at the Cost of a Nickel.

[New York Sun.] Mr. Edison calls his kinetoscope s mere toy, entertaining, but not the thing he is striving after. The "toy" is well worth seeing, nevertheless. It is a square box of polished oak with a slot to receive the nickel that turns on the electric light and starts the marvelously rapid mechanism going. The duration of the show is twenty seconds. The picture is absolutely stable and clear, but the figures in it go about as freely and naturally as though they were alive.

are cut from sheets of photographs taken by the kinetograph, and they show changes so gradual that no one can detect any dif-ference between two successive pictures. The successive pictures follow, one beneath another, but as there is hardly room in this paper for 920 of them, it was necessary to cut away several hundred. The top picture of a column is not, therefore, the succeeding picture to the one at the foot of the preced picture to the one at the foot of the preceding column. Some change can be detected between the top picture and that at the bottom, and, allowing one-forty-sixth of a second for each picture, it is easy to reckon how long an interval occurs between any two in the column.

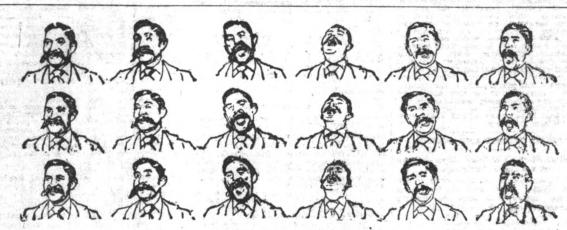

The house in which Mr. Edson's photo graphs are taken and where the wonderful photographic machine, the kinetograph, is kept, is called the Black Maria. It is nicely balanced on a pivot, and has a pair of wheels at each corner. One of the inclined wheels at each corner. One of the inclined roofs is hinged at the base and is drawn off entirely by a rope and pulley when the photographs are to be taken. This admits the sunlight. It is necessary to have the rays of the sun full upon the object to be photographed, as the time of exposure for each picture is so brief. This explains why the beautiful health with the control of the policy of the sun pull the property of the sun pull the property of the sun pull the property of the property why the house is built to revolve on a pivot like a locomotive on a turn-table. It is in order to get the direct rays of the sun into the curious edifice, which can be turned so AGAINST HIS MOTHER.

Little Boy's Damaging Testimony in a Murder Case.

NEW YORK, March 15 .- The extraordinary picture of a boy testifying against his mother, and ignorant of the fact that upon his story the life or death of that mother, accused of the murder of his stepfather, might depend, was presented to day in the Court of General Sessions, when Mrs. Mary Dunn was on trial. The woman is accused of the brutal crime of killing her husband of the brutal crime of killing her husband with a hammer while she was under the influence of liquor on October 14 last.

When her ten-year-old boy, Charlie McGover, who proved perhaps the strongest witness against her, was brought into court, the mother's eyes followed him pleadingly, but the little fellow did not notice her. He seemed oblivious of the solemnity of the occasion, and swung his legs nonchalantly while telling his story. When done he was led away, to be taken back to the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin on Staten Island. The boy is ten years old and, according to his story, the murder was most brutal. His stepfather warder was most brutal. His stepfather lay on the bed asleep, with his eighteenmonths-old son, when the woman pounded his head to a jelly. His blood bathed the baby, completely soaking its clothing.

graph and kinetoscope so that that the ear and eye shall both be entertained. This he and eye shall both be entertained. This he could easily do with present appliances were it not for the difficulty of making the phonograph and kinetoscope jibe exactly in point of time. Every one knows how funny it looks to hear a school orator deliver a fervid period and forget to make his gesture until a moment alterward. A favorite joke of the minstrel men is to pretend to play a tune on some instrument. The tune is really played by a musician concealed in the flies. Finally the minstrel stops touchthe flies. Finally the minstrel stops touch-ing the keys and looks over his shoulder in apparent surprise to hear the music go right

The phonograph has not yet been that the aperture in the roof is directed attached to the kinetoscope. Mr. Edison straight toward the sun. The walls of the says his purpose is to combine the phonopieces of black felt tacked on with brass stubs, that gives the house a crazypatchwork effect. The roof is of tar paper, except the portion that may be raised. The interior is all of black felt. At the entrance, under the open roof, is the place where the person stands and goes through the motions to be photographed. This has the highest roof giving smalls room for example for to be photographed. This has the highest roof, giving ample room, for example, for the giant swing. At the left of the entrance and behind the person to be photographed is an L, which is called by the workmen, "the cave." It is about fourteen feet deep and is as black as night viewed from the light part of the house. At the right of the entrance and in front of the person to be photographed is a long alley with tracks along the floor, on which the kinetograph is rolled out of the dark room at the furthest end of the alley and brought to any desired point to take the picture. The dark room has the usual little red window on.

Mr. Edison will not take any chances of being made ridiculous by a combination of kinetoscope and phonograph which may get out of harmony. He hopes to photograph the hands of an expert pianist, and have the photograph so accurately adjusted to the kinetoscope that when the pictured fingers touch the pictured keys the phonograph will give forth the proper notes at the exact instant. Until he has accomplished this he does not regard his work in this direction as done.

DEVELOPMENT OF A SNEEZE.

The next celebrities to be photographed 920 times in twenty seconds, according to one of Mr. Edison's employes, will be Corbett and Mitchell engaged in an exciting boxing contest. For taking prize-fights and Corbett and Mitchell engaged in an exciting munication from a property-owner in Prospect street, in which he opposes street improvement for that street, claiming that severage and artificial gas lines should first be laid. As far as sewerage is concerned, I have it from the authority of the city engineer that no sewer is to be laid in Prospect street, and as to artificial gas lines, I would think this light will soon be a light of the past, as the electric light will most surely take its place.

Prospect street east of State is to-day one of the worst streets on the South Side, and yet is one of the main streets. It is to-day, and also been for months past, in an impassable condition. Farmers and people living on the stake its of the city, who formerly came in an Prospect street, are compelled to take an an Prospect street, are compelled to take an an infortunately, may have true; but to the shame minortunately, may be said that the improvement is against street in more than the conditions of the city of the conditions of

Altogether, the house is forty-five feet long and fifteen feet wide at its broadest part. It is very light, and a man can turn part. It is very light, and a man can turn it upon its pivot with ease. It is not beau-tiful, but it does the work for which it was designed. W. Heise is the man in charge of it, and he is as proud of it as though it of it, and he is as proud of it as though it were a palace.

The kinetograph is a box about three feet wide and two feet thick. It contains a sensitive gelatine plate in the form of a band, which unrolls with great rapidity and passes before an aperture, where it pauses for the sixtieth part of a second to take one picture, then moves on an inch and pauses for the next picture. The motive power is electricity. Up to this time it has not been possible to take larger pictures than those an inch or two in diameter. Mr. Edison is now conducting experiments to throw these pictures upon a screen by stereopticon, by pictures upon a screen by stereopticon, by by which they can be enlarged to any de-sired size.

> Where Cholera Thrives. [New York Post.]

It is easy enough to understand why Persia is a hotbed for cholera. The only wonder is that it should ever be free from that plague. Here is an extract from a recent report of the British consul at Resht, a town of forty thousand inhabitants: "The cess-pools that exist in each house are mere wells, more or less deep, which have no exit. Drinking water is obtained from wells sunk within ten to twenty yards of these cess-pools. There are no sewers, and although gutters exist in some streets, they are worse than useless, for they have no means of carrying away the accumulated water, and consequently they are oftener than not full of stagnant green liquid. The rubbish out of kitchens, and stuff that goes into the dust-pin at home, here is thrown out in certain corners of streets and open spaces, where it is allowed to accumulate. Ponds have been artificially made where water out of the gutters accumulates, and when in winter it freezes this filthy, muddy water is turned into ice and collected in the ice-houses for consumption the following summer." wonder is that it should ever be free from

A Suspicious Plea.
[Lewiston (Me.) Journal.]

In a Washington county town a little while ago the local champion liar was brought up before the justice for stealing brought up before the justice for stealing hens. It was a pretty plain case, and by the advice of his lawyers the prisoner said, "I plead guilty." This surprising answer, in place of the string of lies expected, staggered the justice. He tubbed his he.d. "I guess—I'm afraid—well, Hiram," said be, after a thoughtful pause, "I guess I'l have to have more evidence before I sentence you,"

IN THE SUBURBS.

Earnest Blume, of Brightwood, entertained a party of young friends last night, John J. Valendaire and Henry A. Hod-son are new candidates for the Brightwood clerkship. It will be the endeavor of Brightwood citizens to eliminate politics from their election of town officers this year. O. E. Williamson, a street-car conductor. is making an active canvass for the clerk-ship of West Indianapolis for next year. Andy McKearn is a new candidate for the marshalship of Haughville. He is a rail-road man and was at one time on the police force of an Ohio city.

The real estate men of the different suburbs say that the houses that have been empty for so long are beginning to fill up, and they look upon that as an indication of returning good times. T. E. Spafford has declined to make the race for the treasurership of Haughville on the Republican ticket, and the names of Drs. Cain and Preston and of Samuel Bartel are mentioned as substitutes.

The piping is being drawn from some of the abandoned gas wells of the long defunct Capital City Gas Company at Brightwood and some of the citizens of the suburb who took stock in the company sigh as they re-call how quickly and easily they "sunk" their money in the bright and early days of natural gas.

In reference to the alleged dissatisfaction in the Republican and Democratic ranks of Wayne township over the candidates nominated, and the report that an independent ticket, headed by Lewis Nelson, Democrat, for trustee, and Courad Bryan, Republican, for assessor, would be put in the field, a Haughville Democrat writes that if any dis-satisfaction exists it is wholly within the Republican party, as the majority of the Democratic candidates were practically nominated by acclamation. Trustee Slack, of the Brightwood Town Board, has not been a resident of the suburb for some time, having moved on to his new home beyond the corporation limits, though he still retains his seat at the council board. As the people of the ward he" represents have made no protest, no one else has bothered himself about the situation, though the question has been raised as to the legality of any action of the board where Slack's yote may have been the deciding one or where there would have been no quorum had he not been present. Although he is one of the hold-over trustees, it is likely that his successor will be elected at the May

At a business meeting of the River-avenue At a business meeting of the River-avenue Baptist church, West Indianapolis, there was a discussion as to the advisability of excluding from the membership persons who do not show any regularity in their attendance at the services, or who do not take an active part in helping to build up the church. A committee was appointed to visit the negligent ones and endeavor to arouse their interest. A report showed that the church is in a more prosperous condition than ever in its history the Suncondition than ever in its history, the Sun-day-school and prayer-meeting being better attended. The church is also improving financially, twelve of the members having already pledged themselves to give to it one-tenth of their incomes.

There is a movement, both in Bright-wood and Haughville, to nominate and elect candidates for local offices who are not connected with the shops. In Haughville the Malleable Castings Company, Ewart Chain Company and Brown-Ketcham Company have the largest interests in the town, and it is said that the tendency not to offend their employers is apt to be ap-parent in the votes of the trustees on town parent in the votes of the trustees on town affairs. A very important matter to be decided by the Brightwood board is the building of the Glen Drive sewer, and the Big Feur company will be obliged to pay a big part of the total cost if the work is ordered done. There are those who think it is material that the board should be made up of men whose action may not be influenced in the least by considerations for their bread and butter. Another objection to town officers who are employed at the to town officers who are employed at the shops during the day is their inaccessibility to those having business with them. The companies do not like to have their employes disturbed during working hours.

The Cordes Case. Judge Winters has postponed a decision of the Cordes case. He advised Mr. Cordes to take his wife back and to treat her right, and perhaps they would live happily. said that if she were not treated right, he would certainly grant her a divorce. He told Cordes that she needed a doctor more than a divorce, and exacted a promise from him to place her in the care of a specialist.

from billous headaches. She complained and moaned, and in three $90.00 months paid a doctor.

Mering she took medicine constantly. The medicine constantly. The medicine cost.

Her headaches were no better then than before, and to get no reliefshe $108,60 left her before the cost.

Then she bought a box of kipans Tabules at the drug store. The first one cured her headache in fifteen minutes, and she was well in three days. This cost her minutes and she was well in three fannies still on hand.

It will thus be seen that it cost her $108,10 more to be sick than to be well.

R-I-P-A-N-S TABULES cure any lliness resulting from a disorded diges-tion, and in nine cases out of ten a single one will bring substantial relief in half an hour. Ripans Tabules are for sale by druggists gener-sale.

Mr. Henry M. Butler has a new Easter anthem in the current number of the Music Home Journal, which will be sung Easter Sunday by several of the city choirs.

At the People's Congregational church Sunday night a song service will be given, in which the regular quartet will be assisted by Mr. Andrew Smith.

At the Crescendo's meeting next Wednesday Miss Catheart will read a biographical sketch of Mendelssohn. Miss Bybee will describe his visit to England; Mrs. Gray his work in Leipsic, and Miss Beck his pianoforte playing. After a resume of current events by Miss Closser, a musical program in charge of Miss McElwee will be rendered.

The regular fortnightly recital at the School of Music will not be given this week on account of the Kammermusik concert to-morrow night.

Mr. J. M. Dungan, of Franklin College, has announced a summer term of his music school, beginning June 19. Two Indianapolis teachers are members of the faculty of this school—Mr. Donley as instructor of organ and plano, and Mr. Schliewen of violin and orchestration. Excellent programs have been prepared for the annual concerts to be given to-night and to-morrow night in the college chapel.

The Schliewen string quartet will be nssisted to-morrow night at its concert before the Kammermusik Club by Mr. Nell, barytone, and Miss Crouse, accompanist. A public rehearsal for students and members will be given'at 12:30 o'clock to-morrow noon. The original program has been changed somewhat and will be rendered as mann, and say besides that the style is totally unlike that of Wagner's well-known writings.

Victor Herbert's new violencello concert in E minor was played by the composer at the concerts of the New York Philharmonic Society, to which body the work is dedicated, last week.

At the first of a recent series of concerts in Glasgow, the audience was allowed to choose by ballot from the repertoire of the orchestra the list of works it desired to hear at the next concert. Rubinstein's "Storm Symbony" received more votes than almost any other work.

The London correspondent of the Musical Courier says: "Mr. Ren Davies has had a most successful German tour, and negotiations are in progress for another more extended tour next autumn." While in Berlin a critic wrote of him: "The surprise, nay, revelation of the concert, was the English tenor Ben Davies. He is one of the best singers I have heard on any stage, concert or operatic, for a long while. He has a beautiful round, full and thoroughly even tenor votee, sings intelligently, musically and without effort or affectation. He is a highly artistic singer in various styles, oratorlo, song and operatic. He made his debut with a recitative Deeper and Deeper Still," and aris "Walt Her, Angels," from Handel's oratorio 'Jephtha', and 'I'll Sing the Songs of Araby,' by Frederic Clay, in English. Next he gave a tender aria from Massenet's 'Manon,' in French, and upon being encored sang Schumann's 'Du bist wie eine Blume,' in German, and so exquisitely that the encore piece was stormily redemanded and had to be repeated."

A great many anecdotes of Von Bulow are being told now. It is related that on one occasion the orchestra gave an immerse Brahms symphony, long and ponderous, and beyond the comprehension of the audience. When the people, whose main sensation was one of relief that it was over, failed to applaud as enthusiastically as Bulow desired, he turned around and refailed to appland as enthusiastically as Bulow desired, he turned around and remarked to them in his energetic way: "What, do you not like it? I will teach you to!" and he made the orchestra play the entire symphony through again. Brahms was always applanded after that, if only in self-defense. On another occasion he manifested exactly a contrary spirit. When a Leipsic audience insisted on recalling him in spite of his repeated refusals to play again, he came forward and said, "If you do not stop this applause, I will play all of Bach's forty-eight preludes and fugues from beginning to end." The audience laughed, and did not insist.

To the group of pianists fairly belonging to the United States recent months have added Courtland Palmer, of whose talent, enthusiasm and industry many kindly opinions are current. Mr. Palmer is young enough—being only in his twenty-fifth year—to have before him a long and distinguished future, and to achieve a reputation of high quality. As a lad he was enough of a juvenile prodigy to be heard with emphatic success in a public concert in New York. Years of diligent study abroad under Parisian tutors of eminent rank, have by this time accomplished much for him; and lately Mr. Palmer has been among the relatively few students and virtuosi to whom Paderewski has found time to be a teacher. In Europe Mr. Palmer has already appeared frequently in public, including engagements at Dresden

By the report of the London Wagner Society for the present year, it appears that the branch now has 202 members, who, during the year, each contributed a guinea, four shillings of which went to Bayreuth. The object of this arrangement is, it is stated, to assist the Bayreuth authorities, who, until recent years, made no profit. It who, until recent years, made no profit. It is furthermore pointed out that Frau Wagner takes no money out of the Bayreuth performances, any profits going to a reserve fund to mount those of Wagner's operas which have not yet been given there, and to replace the scenery of the "Ring des Nibelungen," which was sold in 1876 to defray expresses. Watkin Mills, the great English basso, who is coming to America in April, has a voice of peculiarly wide range, which enables him to take the lighter barytone as well as heavy bass roles. Mr. Mills's record as an oratorio singer is unique. He has sung over fitty times at the Royal Albert Hall, in London, during the last nine years, or since he made his debut in the "Messiah," in which work he has sung there twenty four times. A similar record has been made at the great festivals.
